HER MAJESTY PAYS TRIBUTE TO WAR HERO

Social Blunder of Guest In Attending Dinner at Legation Upsets Capital

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Her Majesty, Queen Marie of Rumania, whose war-time work in the Balkans made her one of the outstanding allied heroines of the World war, today paid tribute for herself and her people to the Unknown Soldier of America.

With impressive ceremony, the queen laid a wreath upon the tomb at Arlington cemetery where the unnamed hero rests.

Then the royal party motored to Mount Vernon, where Her Majesty paid tribute to the founder of the nation.

Her Majesty twice laid the wreath upon the Unknown Soldier's tomb.

Queen Met Cavalry
When the party arrived at Arlington cemetery, it was met by a detachment of cavalry from Fort Myer and escorted to the memorial amphitheater near the tomb.

Her Majesty left her car and stopped to chat a moment with General Rockenback. Then she asked for her wreath, which was handed to her by a legation attaché.

Her Majesty at once walked to the tomb, laid the wreath on it, and crossed herself and bowed her head for a moment.

A battery of camera men rushed up and told Her Majesty her speed had caused them to miss it all.

Queen Marie smiled, picked up the wreath of blue and yellow flowers and repeated the ceremony with great dignity.

Her Majesty stopped to chat for a moment with army officers. As she entered her car, General Rockenback expressed to her his pleasure at her visit.

Accustomed to Soldiers
"Thank you, General, Her Majesty replied. "I have been accustomed to soldiers all my life."

PRESIDENT WILL ESCORT FIRST QUEEN TO DINNER

Marie to Be Guest at Formal Event in White House Tonight

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Queen Marie of Rumania, made her delayed official call on President and Mrs. Coolidge this afternoon. Her Majesty was accompanied by Prince Nicholas, Princess Ileana, and Charles D'Affaires Djuvara and Capt. Wilson Browne, the President's naval aide. They were taken from the legation to the White House in two White House automobiles.

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—President Coolidge will escort his first queen to dinner tonight.

Custom demands that the former Vermont farm boy be seated before Marie, queen consort of the ancient Hohenzollern family, is seated. And it is not often that White House tradition is broken.

Formally, foreign to the democratic man from the Green mountains, literally swamps him today. He must leave his office this afternoon to receive the royal party when it calls to pay respects. This visit will last about 15 minutes. Then President and Mrs. Coolidge must follow the queen and her retinue to the Rumanian legation to repay the call.

The dinner will be severely formal. A dozen aides and a score of flunkies will direct the complex ceremony attendant upon such a dinner.

Coolidge to Escort Queen
President Coolidge will escort the queen. Next will come Mrs. Coolidge on the arm of Prince Nicholas. Then Princess Ileana, on the arm of a presidential aide, presumably Col. Sherwood A. Cheney. Other guests will follow in order of their rank and station.

The queen will be seated on the right of the President; Princess Ileana will undoubtedly be on his left. Prince Nicholas will be on the right of Mrs. Coolidge.

While the White House pursued its usual policy of holding up the guest list until after the dinner, it is known that all cabinet members, the vice president, the speaker of the house, certain members of congress and European ambassadors will be present.

Immediately after the dinner, a general reception will be held in the East room, to which several hundred guests have been invited. The White House dinner is 8 p. m. Gold service will mark the affair.

Hohenzollern Standard Waves
For the first time in many years the Hohenzollern standard waved today over Washington.

The golden eagle on a purple ground bears a breast shield marked with four black and white squares—the family colors of the Hohenzollerns.

This standard, the Rumanian king's arms, was unfurled above the Rumanian legation in honor of the visit of Rumania's queen.

Marie is a Hohenzollern by marriage to King Ferdinand of Rumania, a distant cousin of the former kaiser of Germany.

The late Queen Victoria, of Great Britain, was grandmother of both the kaiser and Marie.

The Hohenzollern queen was the only member of that reigning family to visit America except Prince Henry, of Prussia, who made an American tour more than 20 years ago.

Luncheon in Washington Home
After the ceremony at the tomb, a buffet luncheon was given for the queen in the dining room of the old Washington home.

WITNESS FOR STATE

Carlson Holds Calligraphy Found in Cottage Same As That of Sermon Notes

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19.—Suffering from an infected knee, Aimee Semple McPherson was carried into court here late today. The evangelist was in a serious condition, according to her physician, following a minor operation on the knee at noon. The wound is the result of a pin puncture, the evangelist claiming a poison pin was placed intentionally in her courtroom chair, last Saturday.

(By United Press)
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19.—Milton Carlson, handwriting expert, took the witness stand in the Aimee Semple McPherson hearing today and identified the signatures found on grocery slips at Carmel-by-the-Sea as those of the evangelist.

Carlson also identified the signatures of Kenneth G. Ormiston, fugitive radio operator, whom the state claims shared a cottage at Carmel with the evangelist during her disappearance, as found in hotel registers, telegrams, hotel room slips and numerous receipts.

The state is seeking to establish by the handwriting testimony that the evangelist and the radio man were together during the period of her disappearance.

Identifies Sermon Notes
The witness identified the handwriting on the famous notes from Mrs. McPherson's sermon, "Light and Darkness," which she wrote shortly before she disappeared from the beach, together with the signature of "Mrs. McIntyre," taken from one of the grocery slips at Carmel. The sermon notes and the grocery slips were in the handwriting of the same woman, Carlson testified.

Mrs. Viria Kimball, sister of Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman, state's star witness in the McPherson case, demanded, in a formal letter to District Attorney Asa Keyes today, that Roland Rich Woolley, the evangelist's personal attorney, be placed under arrest.

Mrs. Kimball is the woman who, the defense maintains, was the "Miss X" who made an affidavit in Salinas, recently, that it was she, and not the evangelist, who occupied a cottage at Carmel-by-the-Sea with Ormiston.

Mrs. Kimball requested the arrest of Woolley as a measure of protection for her sister, who is co-defendant with Mrs. McPherson and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, on charges of conspiring to defeat justice by preparing false evidence.

The statement said in part: "The testimony given before Judge Blake, where my sister is on trial, shows: 'First, that Mr. Woolley admits he knew from the very inception that my sister was not telling the truth when she claimed that she was at Carmel with Ormiston.'"

Alleged False Affidavit
"Second, that with this knowledge of the facts, Mr. Woolley caused my sister to make a false affidavit before Mr. Bardin, of Salinas. Mr. Woolley also obtained a false affidavit from Rachael Wells."

"Third, that Mr. Woolley approved false statements issued to the press by my sister, Mrs. McPherson and Mrs. Kennedy."

"Fourth, that Mr. Woolley knew that Mrs. McPherson and Mrs. Kennedy were sending money to my sister, under a false name."

"Fifth, that Mr. Woolley went to Long Beach with Mrs. McPherson and Mrs. Kennedy and encouraged Bernice Morris to produce fake kidnappers. He also had her sign false statements for the press."

POLICE PUT ON GUARD IN COAL FIELD WARFARE IS UNDER WAY

Mob Threatens to Lash A. J. Cook to Post in English City

(By United Press)
NOTTINGHAM, Eng., Oct. 19.—This town bristled with military activity today, as Nottingham special constables were prepared to mobilize and more than 100 police were drafted to guard the coal fields of Nottinghamshire, following demonstrations of hostilities by a crowd surrounding the hotel where A. J. Cook, secretary of the Miners' federation, had held a "council of war."

The management of the hotel last night asked Cook to leave the place, but he refused and police appealed to the crowd to disperse.

The big crowd planned to seize the federation secretary, who was one of the big figures in England's general strike several months ago, and lash him to a post in the market place, but police provided an all-night guard at the hostelry.

The hostile throngs represent a district which has returned increasingly large numbers of miners to the pits recently. They amply demonstrated that they were not in sympathy with Cook, who is fighting to continue the long coal strike.

Envoy to Mexico Is In Washington

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Ambassador James R. Sheffield arrived in Washington today to confer with Secretary of State Kellogg on an answer to the last Mexican note regarding oil and land laws. Consul Blocker, at Mazatlan, notified the department that Mexican police authorities expect to capture today the murderers of J. E. Spriggs, American superintendent of the Pepper Fruit company, who was killed and robbed in Sinaloa, October 16.

EX-CONVICT RETURNS TO PRISON FOR VISIT; HELD

(By United Press)
SAN QUENTIN, Oct. 19.—A little pang of homesickness or something like that caused Ray Briggs, 25, ex-convict, to visit this prison, from which he was paroled in September, 1925. A captain of the guard recognized Briggs among other visitors and had him detained under the law that makes it a misdemeanor for an ex-convict to willingly return to his place of incarceration.

Now Briggs is facing prospects of spending two more years in prison. He claimed it was a case of mistaken identity, but his finger-prints were against him.

Attending Physician Announces No Hope Remains Leader Will Live

(By United Press)
ELMHURST, Ill., Oct. 19.—The condition of Eugene V. Debs, "Little Giant" of the Socialist party, was unchanged at 10:20 a. m. today, his personal physician at that hour reporting that "the end is almost in sight."

Debs is now unconscious and recognizes none of his friends and relatives who are waiting at his bedside.

"Our friend is sinking faster and faster," we cannot hope for him to live," Dr. H. G. Wiseman told the United Press at 11:05 a. m.

Debs' wife, Mrs. Katherine Debs; his brother, Theodore, and his sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Heintz, all of Terre Haute, Ind., were constantly at his bedside. Attendants were kept busy answering telephone calls from personal friends of the Socialist leader—friends anxious to be advised of his condition.

At 1:15, it was announced that Debs was realizing somewhat more easily and apparently would survive for an hour at least. He was still unconscious at that time however.

The Socialist leader entered a sanitarium here a month ago to recuperate from a nervous breakdown that was complicated with kidney trouble.

His condition suddenly took a change for the worse yesterday, and he began sinking.

CALIFORNIA AVENUE, PLEA OF JOHNSON

(Special to the Register)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—At the request of many civic and commercial organizations of California, Senator Hiram W. Johnson today made formal representations to the bureau of public buildings and parks, and to David Lynn, architect of the capitol, urging that the proposed new avenue here, between the Union Station and Pennsylvania avenue, be given the name of California.

These officials, under whose jurisdiction this matter will be, assured Senator Johnson that when the proposal for the new avenue advances beyond the project stages and receives the endorsement of congress, they will give California's request every consideration.

California is one of the very few states not now honored with an avenue in the national capital.

Senator Johnson returned to his office here from California this week.

Charges Are Made Against Governor

OLYMPIA, Wa., Oct. 19.—Summit charges have been made against Gov. Roland H. Hartley to merit circulation of recall petitions seeking his removal, John Dunbar, attorney general, informed J. In a formal document, placed in the hands of the secretary of state yesterday, members of the state-wide recall organization accused the governor of malfeasance in office and of failure to enforce laws passed by the legislature.

Coolidge Frowns On Cut In Tariff

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—A proposal of prominent financial interests for a tariff reduction to stimulate foreign trade is frowned upon by President Coolidge.

The difference in the standard of living between this country and those of Europe makes such a plan impractical, the White House spokesman said.

Sufficient tariff reductions to accomplish trade stimulation would imperil the American standard of living, it was said.

Sick Horse Kicks Rancher to Death

HILMAR, Calif., Oct. 19.—Funeral services for Kne' Swanson, 64, prominent rancher, will be held here Wednesday. Swanson was kicked to death by a sick horse he was treating.

ONCE more we shall hear the initiative and referendum battered because of the multitude of propositions on the ballot. There are twenty-eight of these, many of them unimportant, complicated or technical—quite obviously not suitable for decision by popular vote.

But how many of these are initiative or referendum? Just nine—eight initiatives and one referendum.

And every one of these nine is a simple proposition, on which you are prepared to vote intelligently.

HERE are the nine measures, submitted by petition, under the initiative and referendum law: Two measures for legislative reapportionment; two highway measures; reading the Bible in the schools; the Water and Power Act; the race track gambling bill; the repeal of the Wright prohibition enforcement act, and the referendum on the oleomargarine bill. All these you can understand, and most of them you are interested in.

ONE of the reapportionment measures merely provides a commission to reapportion the legislative districts under the present constitution, in proportion to population, if the legislature does not do it. The other provides a new system of constitution apportionment, leaving the Assembly under the present system, but not allowing more than one Senator to a county, big or little. One of the highway measures merely adds one cent to the present gasoline tax, for highway purposes. The other appropriates $5,000,000 a year out of the general taxes, divides Southern and Northern California into separate highway districts, and assigns the appropriations to named roads. Reading the Bible in schools, the Water and Power Act, the gambling bill, and the repeal of prohibition enforcement, everybody is familiar with. The oleomargarine bill, putting a two-cent tax, and more drastic restrictions on oleomargarine, was passed by the legislature, and has been held up and submitted to the people by referendum.

That is all. And not one of these questions presents any difficulties inconsistent with its settlement by popular vote.

ALL the trouble is with the other nineteen, which belong not at all to the new system of initiative and referendum, but wholly to the old constitutional system, which we have always had since long before the initiative and referendum were heard of. These measures are subtle, but by a vote of the people, but by a vote of the legislature. And even the legislature did not submit them because it, or anybody, wanted them submitted. They were nearly all matters on which the legislature might as well have acted itself, subject always to the referendum, if anybody objected. The only reason they are submitted to direct vote is because our antiquated constitution forbids the legislature to act on them.

SO we have, among others, measures changing the technical procedure for issuing additional stock by corporations; classifying school districts; making minor changes in the election law; simplifying the procedure of irrigation districts; giving appellate courts certain powers to take evidence on appeal; establishing a judicial council; and changing the tax rate on motor transportation companies and short railroads.

Not one of the measures just mentioned is a proper subject of popular vote. Not one of them is submitted because anybody petitioned for it. Not one of them belongs to the initiative and referendum system. All of them would have been submitted, under the constitution as it stood before there was any initiative or referendum.

Think anything of them you please. Complain all you please of their number, and of the absurdity of submitting them to popular vote. But don't hold the initiative and referendum responsible for them.

THERE are, also, on this list, bond issues, like the very necessary one for new buildings for the state and for the university which would naturally be submitted to direct vote under any system. And there may be some others which will arouse interest, and be voted on intelligently. But as a whole, the only excuse for cumbering the ballot with propositions which ought to be decided by the legislature is our antiquated constitution, whose cumbersome restrictions are no longer needed, now that the referendum has taken their place.

It would be safe, now, to grant the legislature almost unlimited lawmaking powers, except as the Bill of Rights restricts the powers of both the legislature and the people. If the legislature passed a bill which any considerable group of the people did not want, it could be submitted to the whole people by petition, as the oleomargarine bill has been, this time. We might, at this election, thus have had three or four referendums, instead of one. But, for lack of utilizing the referendum four times, on bills that somebody would have made it his business to educate us on, we have 19 propositions, most of which we know nothing about, and care as little.

The only escape from a complicated ballot is a simplified constitution.

Miss Morris Recalled
Miss Bernice Morris, dimpled secretary of the late R. A. McKinley, blind Long Beach lawyer, was recalled to the witness stand as the hearing was resumed for final cross-examination by defense counsel.

The comely secretary has stuck firm thus far to her story that she was urged by Mrs. McPherson and her mother and co-defendant, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, to continue with a plan to produce two fake kidnappers and substantiate the evangelist's story of abduction.

Miss Morris testified that the Angelus temple pastor and her mother offered $1500 for appearance of the mythical kidnappers. "We would also like to arrange things so you can get $500," the evangelist told Miss Morris, according to the girl's testimony.

The witness said that Mrs. McPherson gave her a $20 bill on the occasion of one of her visits to Angelus temple, and was promised "something nice" on her next trip to the tabernacle.

Would Give Almost Anything
"I'll give almost anything if these people, through you, can convince the public my story is true," the evangelist said, according to Miss Morris' testimony.

"She said she would like to give the kidnappers $1500 and that she would like to arrange it for me to get $500," the witness testified. Miss Morris related how she "made up" a man known as "Joe Watts," and posed him for a photograph to show Mrs. McPherson for identification as one of her kidnappers.

"Mrs. McPherson asked us to obtain a photograph of the kidnappers," the girl said. "I selected Joe Watts to be photographed as 'Steve' because he was tall and flat-chested like one of the men Mrs. McPherson had described."

When Watts had been disguised with mascara and other make-up, Attorney McKinley remarked, according to Miss Morris:

"I know that Aimee will identify, in the presence of her mother, any photograph of a man resembling one of the kidnappers."

Not to Hoodwink Public
The witness denied the photograph was taken to "hoodwink the public," declaring it was to have been shown to Mrs. McPherson and her mother only.

When the picture was taken to the evangelist, she said, according to the witness:

"That's him—I'd know him any place."

McKinley, during the asserted negotiations with the evangelist and her mother, expressed the belief that Mrs. Kennedy was innocent of the "kidnaping hoax," and that she believed her daughter's story of abduction as related to a grand jury.

Miss Morris quoted the late lawyer as follows:

"You never in the world, could have convinced me before that the old lady did not know everything about where Aimee was. Now, I am sure as I am sitting here that she is innocent of the whole business and that she believed Aimee's kidnaping story implicitly and that Aimee is afraid of her mother and trying to fool her more than anything in the world."

The prosecution was expected to complete its case this afternoon.

The defense has subpoenaed a dozen witnesses to testify concerning Mrs. McPherson's whereabouts during her five weeks' disappearance. Her lawyers expect to establish she was really kidnaped, as claimed, and that she was a captive of her abductors, and not a companion of her radio operator.

Moon Shooting Scheme Flimsy, Expert Holds

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Commenting on the proposal of self-styled scientists in Moscow to shoot a projectile to the moon, Prof. A. W. Bickerton, astronomer, says that the stunt is impossible. He offers these figures as proof: In order to escape the gravitation of the earth, a projectile must have a velocity of seven miles a second. The average big gun can give a speed of only about one-hundredth of that rate, and the most powerful explosive known would give only one-tenth the required speed even if it could be safely used.

GENERAL ROAD CONDITIONS

By National Automobile Club

Oct. 16, 1926

The road around the northern side of Baldwin lake is now open and in good condition. The City and Mill Creek routes into Big Bear valley are advisable at this time for Cactus Flats, between Cushmanberry and Johnson Grades, is now in a very rough condition.

From Bakersfield to Santa Maria via Cuyama valley the road is only in fair condition. This road has been somewhat cut up from summer travel and there are a few places where one can average only about ten miles per hour. From Bakersfield to Kernville via Democrat Hot Springs—this road is open to four miles beyond Democrat Hot Springs. Balance of road will be open to the public on November first.

The main highway between Brawley and Imperial which has been closed due to bridge construction, is now open, and it is no longer necessary to use the rough detour via the Dogwood road.

Oiling operations on National Old Trails route east from Victorville are now completed.

The road between Moorpark and Fillmore via Grimes canyon is not advisable at the present time, as the road is still under construction.

Four feet have been added to the pavement between Whitewater and Indio, making a splendid highway, 20 feet in width. The road from Whitewater to 29 Palms is rough but passable.

Following is a report of road conditions over the National Old Trails route between Holbrook and Springerville, Arizona: From Holbrook to Springerville through the Petrified Forest, Concho and St. Johns, an excellent graveled road will be found. From Springerville to Socorro, through Quemado, Datil, Magdalena, the first 16 miles from Springerville to the New Mexico state line—fair dirt road with improved road to Quemado, mostly gravel surface. Quemado to Continental Divide, through Datil, Magdalena to Socorro—improved gravel surfaced road. Socorro to Los Lunas though Belen—a fair graveled road.

'PEACHES' AND BROWNING WILL KEEP UP FIGHT

(By United Press)
NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Edward W. Browning and "Peaches," his wife, were further apart than ever today.

With both suing for separation, they avoided any suggestion of compromise and gave every indication of fighting it out in the courts if it takes all winter.

The wealthy real estate man was secluded in a Newark, N. J., hotel. While there, he cannot be served with a notice in his young wife's suit, but she can serve through publication if he does not return to the state.

The main topic on Broadway was the amount of alimony "Peaches" will demand.

Peaches has two guardians—a lawyer in Putnam county, where Browning filed suit, and her mother in New York county, where her suit is pending. The mother, Mrs. Frances Heenan, was appointed guardian by Supreme Justice Tierney, on behalf of her daughter, who signed intention of seeking separation from Browning on the ground of cruelty, which she said made it unsafe to live with her husband.

Further action in Browning's suit is expected to be taken this week.

QUEEN AT TOMB OF UNKNOWN SOLDIER

change the courtesy visits demanded by diplomatic etiquette.

Tonight, Her Majesty will be the guests of the Coolidges at a White House dinner, where she will meet members of the cabinet and European ambassadors.

Tour Hits Two Snags
The onward sweep Queen Marie's American popularity tour hit two snags today.

Officials were busy trying to hush up criticism of the queen's violation of diplomatic etiquette in holding a state dinner here last night, without first making a courtesy call on President and Mrs. Coolidge.

Although Her Majesty's banquet was described by the Rumanian legation as "a family dinner," invitations were sent to the ministers of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, the charge d'affaires of Great Britain and France and other officials.

Meanwhile, Washington society matrons were aggrieved by Marie's last-minute decision not to let Prince Nicholas out of her sight. Under the original plan of the Rumanian legation, young Nicholas was to be billeted in the royal suite of a local hotel, some distance from the queen's temporary palace at the legation. But Her Majesty decided Nicholas must sleep in a room next to hers and stay in at night. This, of course, eliminated informal entertainment arranged for the prince.

Could Have Avoided Blunder
Critics of the queen's diplomatic dinner said her impromptu could have been avoided, had she called at the White House immediately after arrival in Washington, the original plan announced by the state department.

With these worries on its hands, the department was undecided today what reply, if any, should be made to protests of newspaper publishers against alleged exploitation by the queen for commercial purposes of this government's hospitality.

The department is investigating alleged obscene references to Her Majesty, which appeared in the editorial of a Chicago radical newspaper.

Queen Marie's coming to the nation's capital was marked by pomp and color, but a blaze of Washington, accustomed to visits from the mighty of the earth, did not over-verse at this new comer except for a small group at the Rumanian legation, her Washington palace for her two-day stay.

On Arm of Kellogg
The queen's special train from New York steamed in at 4 p. m. Some hundreds had gathered in the concourse and they waved greetings, some faintly cheering as the radiant queen, on the arm of Secretary of State Kellogg, followed by her kin, passed down a lane of marines.

But these greetings were not the mad acclaim a Pershing might have had; nor the frenzied plaudits

MARIE ASSERTS MOVIE WRITING FIT FOR QUEEN

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Her Majesty, Marie, believes movie scenario writing is a fit and proper occupation for a queen.

She admitted that in an interview aboard the state department's special train enroute to Washington and intimated further that reports that she had an ambition to become a scenarist writer were well founded.

Before her arrival, it was persistently reported that one of her errands in this country would be to negotiate contracts for scenarists in Hollywood.

The queen flatly denied reports that she would act before a camera. She had no objections to posing for newsreel photographs, but it would be beneath the dignity of a queen to be an actress, she said.

Writing Scenarios Different
"But," she added, smiling, "writing scenarios, you must understand, is a very different matter."

Aside from her movie statement, in an interview granted to three reporters aboard the train, Her Majesty exhibited, both in that interview and in her mass greeting to some 200 newspapermen and photographers aboard the Leviathan in New York, an unusual ability to say nothing—in charming and well chosen phrases.

In response to questions on international relations, Rumanian internal problems and her reported contracts for exclusive interviews, she nicely but firmly evaded the issue.

Her Majesty said she will continue to be Queen Marie, even after her "official" tour ends in New York Wednesday. Thereafter, so far as the state department is concerned, she will travel in "a private capacity." But the public, she explained in the interviews aboard the train, wants to see her as queen and to travel incognito would be "boring."

Shakes Hands With Scribes
The chief characteristics of the queen which struck reporters, aside from the personal charm so widely observed, were her graciously dignified democracy and her firmly regal way of permitting persons in her presence to know her wishes. She and Princess Ileana shook hands with reporters in a most American manner, and they were delighted by the gruff and ready "orders" of photographers.

Her Majesty does not look her 51 years, and both Princess Ileana and Prince Nicholas have a demure but collegiate appearance, which adds to the difficulty of realizing the queen's age.

Edison Generator Largest Machine Producing Power

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—After two years of manufacturing and assembling, engineers have completed the most powerful single machine in the world. It is a great dynamo that will become part of the East River light and power station of the Edison company in this city.

Fifty feet high, the generator weighs more than a million pounds. Eight similar machines now are to be built and will be combined into the largest power plant in the world, capable of producing a million horsepower.

The dynamo just completed can produce 94,000 horsepower, enough to pull fifty loaded trains. Visitors to Panama marvel at three huge Diesel engines of 1000 horsepower each, capable of running the canal in case of failure of the electric plant. The Edison company dynamo could replace 94 of the engines. This single machine, therefore, could operate about 30 Panama canals.

of popular president would receive. Rather, they were the friendly, but subdued, welcome of a city, grown indifferent to heroes and heroines from frequent contact.

Several hundred waiting for the procession insisted upon a closer view of the woman from the shadow of the Carpathians.

Suddenly she appeared on the balcony, smiled her appreciation and remarked graciously: "Thank you so much; it was so good of you to welcome me thus."

GRAVE OF TURPIN MAY BE DISTURBED

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The York corporation has applied for a factually to make a new road of approach to the station. This proposed road involves cutting through a very old graveyard, which is known because some of the victims of the cholera in 1832-33 were buried there, as the cholera graveyard.

The chief interest in the place, however, is that it contains the grave of Dick Turpin, the famous highwayman, who was buried there after his execution at York castle, in 1739.

There is said to be considerable opposition to the project, certain York citizens apparently having a curious reluctance to any disturbance of Dick's resting place. This is sentimentality gone astray.

Turpin, in spite of all the glamor of romance with which Harrison Ainsworth surrounded him in "Rookwood," was nothing but a common thief and murderer, whose crimes often were accompanied by much fiendish cruelty to his victims. The exploits that have taken so strong a hold upon the imagination of thousands are mostly legendary; even the famous ride to York on Black Bess has been proved time and again to be entirely mythical, at least as an incident in Turpin's career.

There are some indications that the London-York ride tradition arose from the performance of an earlier highwayman, John Nevison, who was about as deep-dyed a villain as Turpin himself and who likewise paid the penalty of his misdeeds by hanging at York in the year 1684.

SEEK SUPPORT FOR EDUCATION BOND MEASURE

In the interest of proposition No.
10, to be voted upon in the election
November 2, by which the issuance of $3,500,000 in bonds would be ratified by the people of the state for the purpose of erecting new buildings on the university campus in Berkeley, establishing the new university branch in Los Angeles and constructing two new state office buildings, one in Los Angeles and one in Sacramento, Mrs. G. L.
Andrews, better known to Santa Ana people as Isabel Anderson, former junior college instructor, was in this city today.

Stafford Dunlap, former resident of Fullerton, alumnus of the University of California and a member of the general campaign committee for Southern California, is working with Mrs. Andrews in organizing Orange county in the interest of the measure.

Support sought, Here
Mrs. Andrews, prominent alumna of the university in Berkeley, today was enlisting the support of educational and civic leaders throughout the county in support of the educational proposition.

In Santa Ana, Mrs. Andrews conferred with Stanley Reinhaus and Fred Perry, California graduates; Farm Advisor Harold Wahlberg, A. M.
Stanley, secretary manager of the farm bureau; T. E. Stephenson, Stanford alumnus; Dr. John Wehrli, president of the U. S. C.
Alumni association; David Carmichael, graduate of Stanford, and several others interested in advancing the cause of education in California.

Mrs. Andrews stated that she proposed to present to the fact of the measure to all organizations possible for her to reach in the county, as is being done by university people throughout the state. All of the educational institutions on the Pacific coast are represented on the campaign committee, she said.

Of interest to Southland Strong support also has been given the measure by persons outside of the college organizations, it being pointed out by Mrs. Andrews that the bill is particularly interesting to the citizens of the Southland because it will provide the funds for the erection of the new buildings of the university's new branch at Westwood.

Three million dollars of the $3-500,000 would be spent on the new Southern branch buildings and the remainder would be spent to replace the antiquated structures on the campus in Berkeley, Mrs. Andrews said. She stressed the fact that the temporary buildings in Berkeley, in addition to being fire traps, housed many millions of dollars of apparatus and equipment, as well as collections of a scientific nature that could not be replaced.

The bonds, she explained, would be repaid, as they mature, out of the corporation tax and therefore the issuance of the bonds would not increase the Orange county tax rate.

Mrs. Andrews said that she hoped to enlist all university graduates in Orange county in active support of the measure.

The service was concluded with

Church of the Messiah. The minister offered a plea for peace,
tranquility and content.

The beauty of flowers dominated the eye-picture of today's service.
They were everywhere in gorgeous banks and waves of color and fragrance. Covering the casket, they spread over the pulpit and altar and overflowed the choir loft.

All of the flowers were not in the church. Across on the next street, in the red stone pile that marks the seat of county govern-blossoms hung to the closed doors of Judge West's old courtroom. A of reverent gaze from those who passed.

collection.

Members of the bar association and the Masonic order attended the services in a body, seats being arranged for them. In this group were the two present judges of superior court and three former judges.

Another group was composed of

FRIENDS BOW HEADS AT BIER OF JUDGE WEST AND MOURN PASSING OF BELOVED JURIST

By GEORGE E. HART
Today, a community filed solemnly to church and bowed head at the bier of its distinguished dead.
Judge Z. B. West's people came to say their farewells; to pledge a memory ever green. The honor and respect won in life were his, multi-fold, in death.

No more universal outpour of public feeling has been witnessed in Santa Ana than that tendered to the late jurist by the throngs assembled within stately church walls or massed about the velvet sward of Fairhaven.

The two memorable services that saw him to rest drew the most notable gathering that has convened here in many years. Of-ficialism was there, almost without exception. Bench, bar and the lay public, leaders in the community's financial and industrial life, were joined in a common sorrow.

Expressions of Bereavement Outward expressions of this universally felt bereavement came in a floral display of unparalleled magnificence; in the tender, mournful notes of "Rock of Ages."

It was heard in the moving tones of the scripture, the prayer and the sermon. It was written clearly upon the faces of the assemblage.

Again it was emphasized in the impressive ceremony at the cemetery, where the Masons placed their beloved brother in his last earthly couch.

Services commenced at 10 a. m., in the First Baptist church, where Judge West had been a member since 1888, the year following his arrival in California.

After Robert Brown had sung
"Open the Gates," the scripture lesson was given by the Rev. Otto S. Russell, pastor of the church, who chose the first psalm. This, he said, had been the favorite scripture of Judge West.

There was another vocal solo,
"Rock of Ages," by Mrs. Marie Bishop, and then the sermon, by the Rev. Russell. The pastor's eulogy of his most prominent layman was presented simply, but eloquently. He dwelt upon the early life of the deceased and his development of the sterling qualities that lifted him to the heights in after years. The religious career of Judge West was reviewed and the speaker stressed the faithful service he had given for 28 years as head of the Baptist Sunday school.

His Greatest Work
"I call this his greatest work," said the Rev. Mr. Russell. "He was a great man, a noble citizen, a wise counsellor and a delightful friend. But more than all that, he was a Christian man."

The exemplary character of his Christian life and its influence upon the boys and girls that grew up with it before them could not be measured, the pastor declared.
The legal career of Judge West, his educational leadership and his position as a citizen were lauded by the Rev. Mr. Russell, who said:
"He was not a politician. He was a statesman."

"Any mistakes he may have made were not of the heart. He could always be found on the right side of every question; always out in the open fighting against wrong," said the speaker.

A tender tribute to the late Mrs.
West, who passed on some years ago, was interposed by the minister into his sermon. He recalled his own coming to the Santa Ana church 15 years ago and how Mrs.
West had been among the first to greet him and go with him into the work of the church.

Resolution Is Read
The Rev. Mr. Russell read a resolution, adopted last June by the church board of deacons, acknowledging the worth of Judge West, who was a deacon for many years, and conferring upon him the office of deacon emeritus. This, said the pastor, is the highest office the church can give a layman.

Following the sermon came Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar," given by Clyde Bishop, prominent member of the bar.

The service was concluded with prayer, led by the Rev. W. L. H.
Benton, pastor of the Episcopal Church of the Messiah. The minister offered a plea for peace,
tranquility and content.

the eye-picture of today's service.

ficers, the cortege proceeded in a Seemingly endless line of vehicles to the Fairhaven avenue entrance to the cemetery, thence along the rounding drives to where the burial plot stood beneath a canvas can-opy, walled in with flowers.

Here the solemn Masonic ritual was read by Dr. Charles V. Doty, worshipful master of the Santa Ana lodge, and the burial ceremony of the order was held. Prayer, offered by the two ministers, the Rev. Mr. Russell and the Rev. Mr.
Benton, ended the ceremonial honors extended to the departed from a bereft community.

multitude of other things.

One of the greatest obstacles which the inventor has had to combat was the public notion that sulphur was very inflammable.
"Of course sulphur will burn," said Mr. Kobbe, as he handled a beautifully wrought sulphur vase that looked like bronze, "but the fact is that it is very difficult to make it do so."

Horns for radios and phonographs may be made of sulphur, he said, and resemble papier mache, although much stronger.
Sulphur baths are used to strengthen some of the millions of cheap toys imported annually.

BANKERS BACK FROM VACATION IN MOUNTAINS

A. J. Crookshank, president of the First National bank, and Harry Hanson, assistant cashier, were home today from a month's vacation on the Crookshank ranch near Mt. Lassen.

The bankers refused to reveal the number of deer killed by the party, but they insist that they had venison steaks at least once each day.

They also commented on other good eats enjoyed by the group, with Crookshank, H. J. Forgy and Charles Walker as the chief chefs. Forsy and Walker are expected to return home within the next day or two, the former having been at the camp for two months and Walker for one month. O. L. Hallsell also was a member of the party, but he returned home two weeks ago.

According to Hanson, the Mt. Lassen section abounds in all kinds of wild game, including deer, bear, silver-tailed fox and grouse. Plenty of trout were in the streams, but the water was too cold for good fishing and the group failed to have speckled beauties on their menu.

At different times during the last two nights Crookshank and Hanson were at the ranch, rumblings were heard from the crater on Mt. Lassen, but there were no eruptions. The mountains where the Santa Ana men were located quivered, but there was no real earthquake experience, Hanson said.

"We had a real vacation and we are home with reserve energy to carry us through the next year," commented the assistant cashier.

The luncheon will start at 12:15 p. m.

SUNDAY SERMON

By F. T. PORTER
Pastor First Christian Church
JESUS AS A TEACHER

Whatever else Jesus Christ may be to the world, He stands out before the world as a teacher come from God.

The will of God and the way of life is learned from Him.

He is divinely anointed to instruct. He stands pre-eminent above all other teachers. The light that other teachers shed was dim and borrowed while His is the fullness of wisdom.

Notice some of the characteristics of His teaching.

It was plain and direct. It abounded in illustrations with which the common people were familiar.

It was gentle and affectionate, while, at the same time, it was authoritative. He never said it may be so or perhaps. Christ rises so high above every other teacher as to require a place in a class by Himself.

What were the subjects of Christ's teachings?

He taught us of God, His nature and attributes. Knowledge of God is fundamental to religious life. He not only taught us of God, but He revealed man, his divine origin, the extent of his sphere and his eternal destiny.

He taught us of sin, its true nature.

He taught us of redemption, of the value of the soul and brought life and immortality to light.

The scriptures boldly affirm that "In the beginning was the Word and the Word was with God and the Word was God. All things were made by Him; and without Him there was not anything made that was made."

The smallest atom or subdivision of atom that the eye of the microscope reveals; the largest star that swings in the great space were created by Him and He sustains, nourishes and upholds them. There is not a beat of a bird's wing; there is not a bird song or a star song that does not come from out the heart of the creative Christ.

We speak of God revealing Himself through nature and God revealing Himself through Christ, as if they were two entirely different things, when the eternal and deep truth is that Jesus Christ reveals God through the universe that He created. "The heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament sheweth His handiwork," but remember that the heavens that sing His glory are the heavens that were created by the Word. Now because He created all things He is capable of teaching us all things, and is the incomparable teacher whose word shall live forever. Heaven and earth shall pass away, but His word shall not pass away.

Human relations, customs and conditions change, and so must human laws, but principles never change, hence the unchangeable principles of Christ will abide through all ages.

Modern psychology tells us that the mind is made up of intellect, sensibilities and will. Christ as a teacher understood all this and gave us a perfect revelation, because He was the Creator of all things. Matthew's gospel was written to the Jews and they were a people of the heart or sensibilities and He meets their need. The gospel of Mark was written to prove that Christ was the great wonder worker and satisfied the Romans. Mark records most of the miracles. The Romans were a people of the will. Luke records most of the parables and proves to the Greeks, who were a people of intellect, that Christ is the teacher come from God. He is the universal teacher.

All that Christ taught concerning this life that we have put to the test has proven true. Therefore one thing is forever settled, that He is the best teacher and guide that we can have.

If what He taught us concerning this life is true, then what He has taught us of life beyond also is true.

Buys Old Bureau, But Arrested for Concealing Gun

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Shopping around for antique furniture, Aurelio Baldes, artist, found a quaint old walnut bureau in a second-hand store. He bought it. At his home he discovered that one of the drawers contained an old .32-caliber revolver. Aurelio Baldes, dutiful citizen, took the gun and dashed to police headquarters.

"Sergeant, here's a gun I found."

"Tea, an' you're under arrest for carrying concealed weapons."

Not having $25 for bail, Baldes went to jail, ruminating upon the pitfalls that beset the ardent collector of antiques.

REFUSAL OF $1 FARE MAY COST LOOK AT QUEEN

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—

California was perturbed today over the possibility that a railroad's insistence that all royalty be treated alike will cost this state a look at Marie, queen of Rumania.

The Southern Pacific company, over whose lines Queen Marie must travel from Seattle to California, has declined to enter into the "dollar transportation" arrangement, initiated by the Great Northern, the B. and O. and the Union Pacific.

Total Fare of $3

Marie and her entourage will cross the continent under this arrangement at total transportation cost of $3; $1 to each line.

The Southern Pacific takes the stand that since the usual rates were required of the king and queen of Belgium, the crown prince of Japan and the crown prince and princess of Sweden, no departure should be made in the present case.

"The only exception we have made to this rule," said F. S. McGinnis, passenger traffic manager of the Southern Pacific, "was in the case of Marshal Foch, when he came to America and was acting as a representative of the allied forces."

Same Rules Should Apply

"It would seem that the same rules as to discrimination should apply in cases such as this as in the ordinary conduct of our passenger business. We see no good reason why we should charge one royal visitor regular rates and carry another virtually free of charge."

"It is the opinion of our legal department that granting the rates suggested would be a violation of the interstate commerce act."

No announcement has been made by any person interested in the drawing of Queen Marie's itinerary whether this might affect the existing plan to bring the royal visitor to California.

On the present schedule, Marie will visit San Francisco and Los Angeles after being guest at Maryhill, estate of Samuel Hill, in Washington.

Japan to Build World's Largest Wireless Station

TOKIO, Oct. 19.—What, when completed, will be the largest high-powered wireless station in the world is to be built at Nagoya, important manufacturing city of West Japan. The order has been placed with the Telefunken company, of Berlin.

The station is to be equipped with the latest mechanical appliances and, according to the contract, is to be completed in 1928. It is then believed that Japan will be able to get into direct communication with any part of the world.

"Eight steel towers, each about 200 feet high, will be built, while the machinery to be installed will be capable of generating an amplitude of 500 kilometers and 120,000 meters."

The contract signed is a semi-official one and, instead of payment, Japan will, when the station has been completed, wipe out the greater portion of the war indemnities Germany still owes her.

The new station will be amalgamated with the Japan Wireless Telegraph company, a semi-official concern in which the government holds the largest number of shares.

Valuations In Honolulu Show Big Increase

HONOLULU, Oct. 19.—Assessed valuation of real property in the city and county of Honolulu has increased $60,000,000 in four years, according to the annual report of the territorial treasurer, made public August 17.

The report's figures showed that in 1923 the total assessed valuation of the property was $93,313,801. The 1925 total was placed at $159,230,507.

cash balance of more than $10,000,000 from all funds was on hand in the territorial treasury at the end of the fiscal year, June 30, representing $4,000,000 more than the balance on June 30, 1925.

Economy Brings More Marriages

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Economy marriages are on the increase in England. Mary and John are taking vows before a registrar in increasing numbers and eliminating the religious ceremony because of the expense.

The civil marriages for a period of five years have made up 24 per cent of the total, which is a marked increase over prewar days.

Registrars believe this is no indication of the slackening of religious belief.

Eleven Hostesses Are Successful in Ebell Dance Plans

DANCING offered a different angle to the Ebell vanishing parties and was planned by a hostess group as their way of expressing hospitality in the now famous chain of parties. Of course the peacock room at the Ebell club house was chosen for the festivity, an event of recent date, while the corridor and lounge also were utilized, the former for receiving the guests and the latter for such guests as preferred cards to dancing.

Mrs. Robert G. Tuthill, Mrs. Joseph Warner, Mrs. A. G. Flagg, Mrs. B. J. MacMullen, Mrs. Archie V. Herr, Mrs. W. D. Ranney, Mrs. Otto Haan, Mrs. J. Riley Huber, Miss Jimmie Flagg, Mrs. Alvin Nowotny and Mrs. Clyde Walker, comprising the hostess group, had planned the evening in every detail. Their decorations were especially effective. Bamboo, golden-rod, and dahlias were used throughout the clubhouse, while the addition of corn stalks in the ballroom, gave an autumnal touch that was most attractive.

Seventy-eight couples danced and 32 guests played cards, so the affair attracted an appreciative crowd. In the peacock room, A. G. Flagg served as master of ceremonies and introduced one beguiling dance number after another. Paul Jones, cymbal and kindred numbers were popular, and a new form of pursuit, in which a clever flapper figure, fashioned by James Duggan, had to be danced with by the victimized man in the pursuit, was both popular and merry. Judge Frank C. Drumm was the flapper's first partner, while Rolla Hays sr. was the final one, and thus privileged to make the "young lady" his prized possession. The new music played by the Chapman orchestra, added its charm to the evening. Cosmos and dahlias made the lounge an attractive setting for bridge, and Mrs. Tuthill acted as hostess. Pretty prizes provided by the group, were won by Mrs. George Young, Mrs. Cotton Mather, Mr. Mather and Otto Haan. The card players, like the dancers, enjoyed iced fruit punch served by two pretty young girls, Miss Dorothy Beals and Miss Eleanor Metzgar.

Piano Recital

Constance Schnebly entertained her playing class at her studio, 733 Cypress street, Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. For the past six months these recitals have been given each month at the homes of the different pupils and the parents have been invited to note the progress of the pupils and offer helpful criticisms. This month, Mrs. Schnebly decided to have the pupils alone, with a view to giving a more personal review of the past month's work and to note carefully each pupil's progress. It also provided an opportunity to the pupils entered since the new term of school, to meet the class and become acquainted.

The young visitors, who contributed to the afternoon's enjoyment, were Winifred Triplett with a charming piano solo, and Eleanor Walker, with a violin solo, "Marching Song," by Auer. Other numbers on the program were excellently rendered and thoroughly enjoyed.

Those who took part in the recital were: Barbara Rurup, Evelyn Grisct, Vada Stringlen, Ellen Margarita Schnebly, Louise Rurup, Roland Goetsch, Julianne Wolven, Shelley Horton, Bernice Walker, Jennie Prospehl and Dick Horton. Ice cream and cake were served. Hereafter the recitals will be held semi-monthly instead of monthly. Mrs. Schnebly announces her connection with the De Whitemere conservatory of Los Angeles, where she teaches Wednesday of each week.

Thanksgiving Dolls

Thousands of orphans in institutions throughout the United States will have a happier Thanksgiving this year, according to Dorothy Johnston, secretary of the National Thanksgiving doll offering committee. Women's organizations in all sections of the country are collecting an dressing dolls to be distributed to the inmates of institutions.

"There are over one hundred thousand orphan girls in the United States, and we hope to be able to secure a doll for every one of these," said Miss Johnston. "In practically every country in the world, interesting doll customs have sprung into existence. In the United States, however, little national love has woven itself about the doll, despite the fact that the doll is one of the important means of developing the instincts and charms of womanhood."

"Because Thanksgiving is distinctly American, we have selected that day as most fitting for the offering of dolls to orphans. The dolls that are collected in each community will be given to the inmates of the local institutions. "Although our returns from the local committees are incomplete," continued Miss Johnston, "we estimate that already 20,000 dolls have been collected throughout the country. Each committee secures the number of girls in the local institutions and uses that as a quota. In some localities the quota is already nearly reached. If any quotas are exceeded the dolls will be distributed among needy children."

All the national cemeteries in the United States have a total area of 153,160 acres.

Dr. Wehrl's Finance Is Complimented by Sorority Sisters

MISS CLARE CONDON, charming Orange finance of a prominent young D. D. S. of this city, Dr. John Wehrl, has been honored at several parties recently by her sisters in the Phi Mu sorority.

Among them was a bridge luncheon given by Miss Catherine Wilson of Los Angeles, at the Mary Louise tea room where the Chinese room with its rich hangings and quaintly oriental atmosphere, was setting for the hospitality.

Arranged in the shape of a horseshoe, the table was a picturesque sight with quantities of autumn flowers in bronze and golden tints, harmonizing with the other fittings of the room. Covers were laid for nearly thirty guests.

Sorority Dinner

The Phi Mu sorority house in Los Angeles was the setting for a second smart party for Miss Condon, when a group of the co-eds planned a beautifully appointed dinner for her. Flowers, gaily and friendship made the dinner hour delightful, and the festivity continued throughout the evening hours when Miss Condon was made honoree at a theater party at the Orpheum.

Today, Dr. Wehrl and his fiancée were to be entertained at the Exchange club luncheon and the wives of the members were to be guests and greet the new "Exchange."

October Affairs at S. A. Country Club

With three delightful club parties already to its credit for the month, Santa Ana Country club plans for October include the usual evening bridge party and an evening of dancing, as coming events.

One informal dance has already been enjoyed by the members, while the afternoon bridge party of last week, attracted scores of feminine players. On Friday night of this week, the monthly bridge party for both men and women will be held. Playing will begin at 8:15 o'clock and the manager, F. T. McGilvray, has announced that extremely attractive prizes have been selected for the winners, since a large crowd is expected.

The month's gaieties will reach their climax on Friday night, October 29, when a Halloween dinner and barn dance will be held. Those who remember last year's successful affair, are anticipating an even greater success this year, since the plans promise added features. Everything will be carried out in old-fashioned farm style, as said, and the guests are expected to be garbed accordingly. Members may take guests to these different events, and the Halloween dance is expected to attract an unusually large attendance.

Institute Club Has Interesting Session

The Woman's Institute club of Santa Ana met with Mrs. R. D. Lindsey, 721 South Van Ness avenue last Friday for the regular monthly meeting.

After the business meeting, two guests, Mrs. Arthur Munselle and Mrs. Walterhouse were welcomed to the club.

The program for the meeting was the altering of paper patterns and styles for unusual figures.

Mrs. Ray Dixon, Mrs. C. L. Martin and Mrs. Earl Matthews with Miss Louise Brokaw, Mrs. R. D. Lindsey and Mrs. M. E. Files as models demonstrated and explained each step in remodeling the patterns.

After a discussion of the models and after a program for the next meeting, to be held at the home of Mrs. C. L. Martin on Buaro road, had been decided upon, the meeting adjourned.

Many Informal Dinners Given at St. Ann's On Sunday

Sunday at St. Ann's Inn was a particularly delightful day, marked by numerous nappy functions in which a number of friends were assembled for dinner, as well as by smaller parties of from two to half a dozen.

One of the larger gatherings was a dinner presided over by Mr. and Mrs. Mark Johnston of Honolulu who are visiting Mrs. Johnston's mother, Mrs. Margaret Warner, 607 East Fifth street. Mrs. Johnston selected a color scheme appropriate to the season when she decided upon having all table appointments in yellow. An immense bowl of yellow chrysanthemums centered the table, flanked by tall white tapers in the same sunny tint. Nut cups at each place repeated the color.

The guests were seated at a large round table, where each found his place by means of amusing cards on which weird animals formed of prunes and raisins, disported themselves.

Enjoying the hospitality of the Honolulu guests, Mr. and Mrs. Johnston, were Mrs. Margaret Warner, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Warner, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Skiles, Mrs. Anna Northmore Little, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Northmore, Miss Sarah Warner, Miss Margaret Ore and John Cubben.

Family Party

At a nearby table, Judge and Mrs. Homer G. Ames were hosts at a family dinner of fourteen guests. Their table was also cheery in yellow appointments, with an artistic arrangement of chrysanthemums and blue mignonette in the center. Place cards and nut cups were in complete harmony.

Los Angeles Guests

Mr. and Mrs. Schmitz of Chicago who are spending some time at the Inn, had Mr. and Mrs. Read of Los Angeles, as their guests Sunday, and Mrs. Schmitz chose golden zinnias to adorn the table where they dined. A number of other special parties made the day a succession of pleasant events at the Inn.

Escondido Guests at St. Ann's Present Musicales

SONGS made familiar by Harry Lauder, were sung by his friend and one-time neighbor in Scotland, W. Porteous, at a delightfully informal musical evening given at St. Ann's Inn last week by Mr. and Mrs. T. J. McLemore of Escondido.

The talented singer with Mrs. Porteous were among the guests entertained by Mr. and Mrs. McLemore together with Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Green, Dr. and Mrs. Otto S. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Z. T. Douglas, Dr. and Mrs. Frank Ashmore, Mrs. J. L. Runyon, Mrs. Bransford Lewis, of St. Louis; Mrs. W. H. Harrison, Miss Watkins, Miss Dorothy Greene, Miss Virginia Russell, Miss Lula Minter, Miss Edie Douglas, Miss McLemore, Dr. E. A. Wood and George W. Minter.

Mrs. Russell played the piano accompaniments for Mr. Porteous, and his songs delighted the guests. His home in Scotland was just a short distance from that of the famous singer.

Punch and wafers were served ere the pleasant evening drew to a close. Mr. and Mrs. McLemore are frequent guests at the Inn, and recently came from their Escondido home for a restful stay of a week or so.

Cats, Bats, Witches
Add Interest to Party

Little Miss Eileen Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Rogers of South Bristol street, happily celebrated her tenth birthday anniversary Saturday, at her home in company with fifteen of her schoolmates.

Mrs. Rogers had decked the living rooms and dining room with all sorts of Halloween emblems, including black cats, bats and witches and the little folks made merry with various games, played both in and out of doors.

The children showered little Miss Eileen with gifts and all gathered about the big table for the refreshments, so much enjoyed and the main part of the "party." The lovely cake was the center of attraction and the children all wished more happy birthdays for the honoree.

SECOND DELAY IS GRANTED IN GOODWIN CASE

A second delay was granted this afternoon in the trial of the Rev. Philip A. Goodwin, charged with murder, when Superior Judge E. J. Marks continued the proceedings to Thursday, at 10 a. m.

The actor-priest, who is charged with slaying Joseph J. Patterson, Los Angeles bond broker, appeared in court today with an attorney, Kitt Gould, of Fresno. Gould told the court that he had become connected with the case only last night and was, as yet, totally unprepared for trial. He pleaded for a postponement of 10 days or two weeks, but Judge Marks indicated that this would be impossible.

Goodwin told the court that he desired to notify certain defense witnesses, in Denver, who, he said, would come here to testify without requiring service of a subpoena. Gould stated that he desired time in which to examine the transcript of the preliminary examination proceedings, at which Goodwin was held for trial.

Attorney Nearly Blind

"I am nearly blind, your honor, and it will be slow work for me to read over the transcript," he said. The defense had no copy of the transcript in court, its copy having been retained by Attorneys Gavin and Scott, of Los Angeles, who were dismissed as defense counsel last week. District Attorney A. P. Nelson offered the state's copy to the defense for examination.

"I want to see that the defendant's rights are fully protected," said Judge Marks, "but it doesn't seem necessary to postpone the case 10 days. It will be some days after the start of the trial before the defense witnesses are required and it should not take long for an examination of the transcript. We will continue it to Thursday, at 10 a. m."

Special Panel Ordered

Upon stipulation between prosecution and defense that a special venire should be summoned, Judge Marks ordered a special panel of 50 jurors to be brought into court Thursday morning. There are 30 members of the regular panel available and this number soon will be exhausted, it was anticipated.

Gould, the new defense attorney, reached Santa Ana this morning, after an all-night ride by automobile stage. His retention by Goodwin was a surprise, as the priest was known to have been negotiating yesterday with Attorney J. W. Smith, of Los Angeles.

Miss Gould, the attorney's daughter, was with him in court today, apparently acting as his assistant.

MURDERER KILLS SELF AT WEDDING

WARSAW, Oct. 19.—Poland's one-man crime wave, in the person of Jan Zielinski, who was credited with 60 murders and hundreds of robberies, has been quelled. The daring bandit is dead because of his desire to see his sister married.

Long successful in evading the police, Zielinski came out in the open when his sister's wedding day was announced and said publicly that he would attend the ceremony in Warsaw.

Police made arrangements to surround the house on the wedding day. Zielinski arrived with his gangsters, who opened fire on the police. After an hour, in which the police used machine-guns and the bandits contented themselves with sniping, the fire from the house ceased suddenly. Upon entering, the police found the wedding party standing around the body of Zielinski. His followers declared he had committed suicide.

Two Automobiles Damaged In Crash

No one was reported injured in an automobile accident on Fourth street between Broadway and Birch streets, at 9:30 p. m., yesterday, when machines driven by W. H. Gallierine, 31, Huntington Beach, and J. B. Smith, Santa Ana, collided. According to a report filed with the Santa Ana police, the accident occurred when one of the machines backed out of a parking stall into the path of the other. Both cars were damaged.

City Zone Plans To Be Discussed At Two Meetings

Men and women interested in city zoning were reminded today, by Mrs. Clara Cushman, secretary of the Santa Ana planning commission, of the public meetings to be held in the city council chambers Thursday and Friday nights of this week for discussion of the zoning plans outlined by Dr. Carol Aronovici, city planning expert.

Discussions Thursday night will be in regard to the business area and a map, outlining the district, will be presented for inspection. The map is strictly tentative and the purpose of the meeting is to get an expression from property owners as to the limits that should be established.

On Friday night discussions will have to do with apartment house zoning and residents of the city interested in this type of building are urged to attend.

The meeting each night will start at 7 o'clock and residents are urged to be in the council chambers on time.

COUNTY LIONS TO HOLD PARTY ON HALLOWE'EEN

The Orange County Council of Lions Clubs, meeting last night in Santa Ana, initiated a movement for a big Halloween "high jinx," to be held at the fair grounds on the evening of October 23. All clubs in the county will participate and each will present a stunt on the program of entertainment, with a prize going to the club which offers the best feature.

The dining room on the grounds will be the scene of the big affair. Those who desire may wear appropriate Halloween costumes. It is to be a general get-together social for Lions, according to plans discussed at last night's meeting.

The program is scheduled to start at 8 p. m., and continue one hour, when dancing will be the diversion. J. R. Hunt, manager of the Orange County fair, was named general chairman of the committee responsible for development of details of the "high jinks." Others on the committee are Andy Anderson, Santa Ana; C. E. Halber, Fullerton; Harry Lawlor, Anaheim; Paul Muench, Orange, and C. B. Henry, Garden Grove.

Organization of a club in Fullerton was discussed last night, following a request from a group of men of that city for installation of a club. Dr. E. H. Rowland, assistant to District Governor William Strel, will make investigation and determine whether a club can be successfully launched.

Moving picture views of citrus activities in Florida were presented by Harold Wahlberg, county farm advisor, who took the pictures during his recent tour of the country.

MAN SLAYS SPOUSE AND STEP-DAUGHTER

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 19.—A desire for revenge was O. Cornell's motive in slaying his wife and step-daughter here, according to police.

Cornell probably fatally wounded himself after he had fired five bullets into the bodies of Mrs. Fairy Cornell, 38, his estranged wife, and Fairy Gerasse, 14, his step-daughter. The shooting followed the swearing of a complaint against Cornell by his wife, accusing him of offenses against his step-daughter. Cornell escaped from officers shortly after the complaint was filed, a week ago.

The tragedy was witnessed by Laura Lee Montoya, another step-daughter of Cornell, and her three children. According to their testimony, Cornell tore the front door screen off its hinges and started to shoot without warning.

Cornell is a truck driver and is 31 years old.

PEDESTRIAN HURT WHEN HIT BY CAR

E. P. Barnard, 3061 Elgin street, Lomita, Calif., reported to the sheriff's office last night that the automobile which he was driving ran down a pedestrian six miles south of San Juan Capistrano late yesterday.

Barnard reported that he did not know the name of the injured man or how serious his hurts were. The man was taken into a service station near the scene of the accident, he reported.

The Barnard machine was traveling 20 miles an hour, according to the report, when the man stepped from the side of the road directly in front of the car.

Reckless Driver Gets Suspended Sentence, Fine

Tom Stark, 51, 1015 West Highland street, Santa Ana, today was given a 60-day suspended jail sentence and a fine of $50 by Judge J. F. Talbot, in police court.

Stark was arrested by W. A. Swain, city officer, last night, on a reckless driving charge, after the automobile which he was driving, is alleged to have crashed into a machine parked in front of the city hall.

Stark paid the fine and was released.

ARMISTICE DAY STORE CLOSING WILL BE ASKED

The reported decision of a chain store system to keep its Orange county establishments open for business on Armistice day, November 11, provided the Armistice day parade committee with a lively topic of discussion at the regular Monday night meeting, with the result that a committee was appointed to draft a letter to be sent to the headquarters of the chain store system, asking it to co-operate in observing the holiday.

The committee named consists of G. K. Scovel, Ted Craig and Frank Mason. Members of the general committee were present last night from Anaheim, La Habra, Garden Grove, Brea, Orange and Santa Ana.

To accommodate the crowds expected, the dance committee was directed to secure a third hall for the evening of Armistice day, the American Legion floor and the Knights of Columbus floor already having been set aside for the use of the Legion on the holiday.

Fred Faber, chairman of the football committee, reported that the gridiron game of the day would be provided by teams representing the battleships Idaho and Oklahoma, the best teams from the Pacific fleet. Additional bleachers now are being constructed on the high school football field.

In addition to more than a dozen bands, already secured for the parade, there is a possibility that the 125-piece band from the U. S. S. Mississippi may be sent to Santa Ana for the holiday, it was reported by Harry Hanson, chairman of the band committee.

Dean Colver and Joseph Plank were appointed to arrange for additional publicity for the parade, which will be the seventh annual Armistice day celebration held in Orange county.

MISSING BOY FOUND LOCKED IN THEATER

A mother was nearly frantic last night when her 11-year-old son disappeared while the two were in a Santa Ana theater and it was not until after midnight that the "lost" boy was found—locked up in the theater.

The mother and son attended the show together. The house was crowded and they were forced to occupy seats some distance apart. After the show the mother waited in front of the theater for the son. He did not appear. She went home. He was not there. She returned to the theater and then back home again. Still the son was missing.

At 12:30 a. m., the boy was found, locked in the theater. He fell asleep during the show and was not seen when the lights were turned out and the place locked up.

Sheriff's officers were notified that the boy was missing and later that he was found.

CITY ENGINEER INSTRUCTED TO OPEN STREET

Instruction to City Engineer Nat H. Neff to open Flower street, from Seventeenth street to Santa Clara avenue, appointment of a committee to confer with Santa Fe officials with reference to widening Santa Fe street, and the granting of a permit to operate a bowling alley in Santa Ana Sunday afternoons, were features of business transacted last night by the city council.

Deeds have been filed for the land necessary to open an 80-foot street through the Greenleaf and Greenwald properties, lying between Seventeenth and Santa Clara, and Neff was directed to proceed at once with the removal of trees and the grading of the street to complete the extension of Flower street to a connection with that street at Santa Clara avenue. The council does not contemplate paying the street or improving it at the present time, further than to grade it so that it will be available to those who may want to drive over an unimproved highway.

Open Alleys on Sunday
Permission was given H. L. Gasper and W. B. Anderson to operate their bowling alleys on West Fourth street, Sundays from 1 until 12 p. m. The permit was granted on a 4-to-1 vote, George McPhee opposing. Other councilmen took the position that owners of bowling alleys were as much entitled to permits to operate on Sundays as theaters and pool halls.

Pointing out that Santa Fe avenue is but 30 feet wide, and emphasizing the fact that the street is the quick outlet to the packing house district for the east end fire department, Mayor Frank Furton asked if something could not be done to widen the street. Following a suggestion that it might be possible to induce the Santa Fe Railway company to give 10 feet on the west side of the street, Neff was named to confer on the subject with officials of the company.

Light District Unchanged
The ornamental light district, being organized in the southeast portion of the city, will remain in its original state, following decision by the council not to extend the district north on Orange avenue to First street. The district embraces the territory lying between Halliday street and Orange avenue and McFadden and Bishop, and includes both sides of the streets named as the boundary avenues. A system of 12-foot, one-light, marbleite standards is proposed.

In line with recent decision of the city body to eliminate temporary sheds and old shacks within fire district No. 1, Building Inspector W. S. Decker, Fire Chief John Luxembourg, Street Commissioner Stanley Goode and Neff were appointed a committee to investigate fire nuisances and make recommendations as to buildings that should be moved from the district.

The city clerk was directed to notify A. Turk that he must clean up his junk yard on East Fourth street within 30 days or surrender his license.

City Float Authorized
The city engineer was authorized to develop a city float for the Armistice day parade and the Boulder dam was offered as a suggested scheme. The suggestion was made by Gene Douglas, in charge of arrangements for the parade.

Permit was given S. Arroyo to install a 120-gallon gasoline tank at his residence, 2202 West Fifth street.

Installation of a center suspension light at the end of South Artesia street was authorized and a request for a light on Baker street, in the first block south of Seventeenth, was referred to Light Commissioner McPhee.

Renewal of the contract with the county for control by the county health department of the health department of the city was approved. In the past, the city has been paying the county $3000 a year for the service. The charge under the new contract will be $1 a year. Dr. V. G. Presson, county health officer, explained the reduction by saying that cities paying for the service had complained that they were being double taxed, and that hereafter the full cost of operating the department would be provided under an appropriation by the board of supervisors.

Will Pave Wright Street
Plans and specifications were adopted for paving Wright street from First to Fourth, and deeds were accepted for widening Wright street north of Seventeenth. The street to be widened formerly was known as Mabury street.

The health department was requested to investigate sanitary conditions at the home of Henry Cook, northwest corner of Baker and Sixth streets. Councilmen asserted that the maintenance of ducks and rabbits by Cook created a health menace.

Application of A. C. Wiebe for permission to establish a garage at the rear of his home, 819 East Fifth street, was referred to the planning commission.

Permits for Signs Given Permission was given for the erection of electric signs at 304 North Main street, 409 East Fourth, 213 East Fourth, 511 North Main and 422 West Fourth street.

Mrs. John A. Clarkson, representing the California Public Safety conference, the woman's division of the California Development association, requested adoption of a traffic ordinance, being adopted by other cities in the state, for the purpose of making traffic regulations uniform. Mrs. Clarkson was asked to compare the ordinance presented with the one now in effect in Santa Ana and point out to the council the difference between the two.

COURT WINDS UP TOONERVILLE LINE

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa., Oct. 19.—The sum of $742.19 will be distributed to the holders of $102,223.25 worth of bonds of the defunct Phoenixville, Valley Forge and Stafford Electric railway, it became known with the filing of the auditors' report. This will be a dividend of .07256 per cent, all that remains of the line built and operated for the first time in 1911.

It was over the tracks of the line that the Toonerville trolley, known to readers of comic sections of daily newspapers and to movie fans throughout the country, had its conception. The scenes for the Toonerville pictures were taken at Williams Corner along Pickering creek between this place and Valley Forge, and the uncertain and winding track of the trolley company furnished an ideal setting for the picture makers.

The road was built by Thomas E. O'Connell, then residing in Phoenixville, who sold most of the bonds. Toward the end, which came in 1923, only one car was operated on the line between Phoenixville and Spring City, with O'Connell, the builder, remaining doggedly at the control box, composing the whole crew and all the employees of the company.

Finally, the car, in descending a steep grade in Spring City, jumped the tracks when the brakes refused to hold, leaped over a curb and plunged into a residence. Suits were started and receivers appointed.

Scout Corner

At the last meeting of the scoutmaster's round table, with representative scoutmasters present from all over the county, a program of objectives was established for scout troop procedure all over the county. The program was submitted for approval of the entire field, to become operative November 1, at which time report blanks and explanations will be provided to each troop.

Each point is to count 10 points each month when full requirement has been met. It is possible to score 100 points each month.

Advancement—At least one scout to advance each month for every 16 members or fraction thereof. Thus, if troop has eight members, one must advance each month, or if troop has twenty members, two must advance each month. Qualification for Merit Badge will be considered advancement in rank. No holdover credits.

Registration—Troop to be registered during month registration is due. If this requirement is met, 10 points will be allowed each month for 12 months, otherwise no points will be allowed for the year.

Camping—At least one camping trip or outdoor meeting each month. Attendance of 25 per cent of troop at RoKiLi will count as one camping trip.

New members—Troop filled to the limit—it has established. Limit must be either 24 or 32 plus senior patrol leader, if available. Troops not thus filled may qualify for points by registering one new boy each month. If two boys are registered during one month, this will be credited for two months.

Training—Scoutmaster or adult troop representative to be present at each session of the scoutmaster's round table. At least one adult representative to be enrolled in the scoutmasters' training course. At least one representative to be enrolled in the patrol leaders' pow-wow.

Patrol—Troop to be organized into patrols, with patrols functioning. Regular patrol leaders meeting with definite program for each patrol.

Troop committee—Troop committee members to visit at least one troop meeting each month. To meet at least two times each year, and organize along lines of standard troop committee organization provided by the Orange County council. Respond to any calls for help the scoutmaster may give.

Standard troop program—Using a program for each meeting planned at least a month in advance as per outline to be provided by the county organization.

Scout service—Regular practice of scout principles, such as community good turn, patrol good turn and practice of the oath and law. Weekly reports—To be mailed not more than two days after each meeting.

Troops organized during year will start with the rating of all troops at the registration.

Standings of all troops will be compiled the 10th of each month. Troops not having reports in by that time will receive no credit on points involved.

Newport No. 1
Newport cabin was formally dedicated last Friday evening with a ceremony in charge of A. J. Twist, scoutmaster. After a program, which included a dedicatory talk by Dr. Conrad Richter, and presentation of second class badges by county scout officials, Twist announced that, in addition to a large amount of cash, much material was donated for the building. Site for the building was given by the American Legion.

Santa Ana No. 8
This troop, under the sponsorship of the Episcopal church, of Santa Ana, is to be revived on Friday evening, October 22, at 7:30, in the basement of the church. C. E. McGowan is to be scoutmaster and Pete Twist, assistant. Although many of the boys formerly comprising the troop are not available at the present time for membership, it is hoped before long to be able to revive the old spirit that characterized the troop. Any boys interested in the scout program, whether they belong to the church or not, and are 12 years old or more, will be welcome to meet with them.

NOTHING MECHANICAL about Safeway Stores.

—there's a humanness—a spirit of friendliness—of helpfulness—that you sense the moment you enter.

Here's a package—a well known brand;—here's a similar item—equally well known—and here's your Safeway man to tell you (when asked) which is the better suited to your purpose.

The grocer's shelves have many products familiar to you—by name only. What's Purex, or Clorox, you ask?

What's the difference between them?

—there's the Safeway man ready—and most willing to impart information.

What's the difference between this brand of tuna—and the other? How do you know—by the mere handling of the can—that one contains the highest grade of white meat tuna, the other not quite so white, but equal in food value—at a lesser cost—for the more economically inclined.

—there's your Safeway man, to serve you and to inform you.

Men who seek employment in a modern grocery must have grocery experience;—must know kinds and qualities and values

How then expect the average housewife to know as much about the hundreds of products of the grocer's stock? Safeway men are at hand to supply needed information.

Safeway Stores are not mechanical. They are human. Nothing cold or machine-like about them. Safeway Stores are friendly stores.

DeMolay Expects Big Attendance

A record attendance is expected at the meeting of the Santa Ana chapter, Order of DeMolay, next Thursday night.

Several matters of business are to be considered. The principal topic to be decided is the arrangements for a social that has been suggested for the last of the month in the city "Y" building.

Previously, the members of the DeMolay chapter have been holding their meetings on Saturday evenings. That date was found to be unsatisfactory, so plans were made for the boys to hold their meetings on Thursdays in the red room of the Masonic temple.

Mrs. Fay Gardner, Mrs. Rae Stedman and Mrs. Helen Wells were hostesses Thursday afternoon at Mrs. Gardner's home, on South Main street, to the Daughters of Confederate Veterans.

The program for the afternoon's entertainment had been arranged by Mrs. Minnie Taylor, who presented the first number, a talk entitled "The South in Poetry and Fiction." Mrs. Stedman then rendered several Southern melodies on the piano and Mrs. Camilla Phillips read "Annabelle Lee," by Edgar Allan Poe. Mrs. L. A. Mayfield read a paper on the life of Sydney Lanier and illustrated several characteristics of the poet by quoting his poems.

Mrs. Stedman read a sonnet by Henry Timrod. Mrs. Rebecca Pope reviewed "A Daughter of the South," by Stanley, and Mrs. Victor Montgomery reviewed "Little Gissin of Tennessee," by Dr. Peckny.

Treat Colds 2 Ways

With ONE Treatment

WHEN rubbed over throat and chest for all kinds of cold troubles Vicks VapoRub does two things at once:

- (1) Its ingredients are vaporized by the body heat and inhaled direct to the inflamed air passages, loosening the phlegm and easing the difficult breathing, and
- (2) At the same time it warms and stimulates the skin like an old-fashioned poultice, "drawing out" the soreness and pain and thus aiding the vapors inhaled to break up the congestion.

This double action of Vicks usually relieves the most stubborn cold over night.

GOOD GASOLINE KNOWS NO SEASON

Not "New" Quality
Just Quality

Every drop, every gallon winter or summer, the finest that can be made

Exclusive choice of the World's Greatest Drivers

THOUGH constant research and improvement have continually bettered the fuel which has won more official A. A. A. speedway victories and world's records than all other gasolines combined, Richfield has never advertised "new" quality.

As a matter of fact, Richfield perfected easy starting gasoline many years ago—the so-called "winter gasoline" now so widely advertised. Also, Richfield was first on the Pacific Coast to commercially introduce the new cracking process which will undoubtedly be adopted as rapidly as possible by every other gasoline refiner. This new process creates valuable hydrocarbons, producing a better balanced, more powerful and more volatile motor fuel than was heretofore possible although unsuccessfully attempted in some gasolines by the addition of various chemicals and "motor tonics."

Richfield is and always has been a pure, undoctored gasoline! Our engineers long ago proved to their own satisfaction that with gasolines made entirely from Western naphthenic base crudes, the addition of dangerous chemicals or poisons was entirely unnecessary and in some cases, actually harmful. Even the most efficient of these chemicals as used in tetra-ethyl gasoline—tetra-ethyl lead, which because of its deadly poisonous nature has caused serious cases of lead poisoning—although effective in reducing the "knock" in gasolines made from Eastern crudes, is absolutely valueless in Richfield.

Richfield's continued improvement has been passed on to the public as a matter of course. The same high standard of manufacture and strict adherence to quality that have made Richfield the choice of the world's greatest drivers have at all times assured the motorist of the finest gasoline that could be made.

This year or next year, no matter what the season or where the place, you know Richfield is best! Compare it with any pure gasoline or any doctored fuel you wish and you will find it excels in its perfectly balanced qualities of easier starting, speed, power and mileage!

When a Better Gasoline is made you will get it from the Richfield pump.

S. C. HARTRANFT INDICATES THAT HE WILL VOTE WITH GOVERNOR

Richardson Action in Calling Special Session of Legislature Is Supported

ASSEMBLYMAN IN OPINION REVERSAL

Wanted Finney Reservation 18 Months Ago, But Now in Favor of Removal

That Assemblyman S. C. Hartman is supporting Governor Richardson in the governor's call for a special session of the legislature for the purpose of endeavoring to ratify the six-state compact without reservations appeared today, when Hartman issued a statement indicating that he will vote with the governor.

If Assemblyman Hartman votes that way, he will be reversing himself, for in the session of the legislature 18 months ago he voted in favor of the Finney reservations. The sole purpose of Richardson's special session, meeting Friday of this week, is to remove the reservation.

Defeated by Dr. Ball
Hartman, in August, was defeated for re-election by Dr. C. D. Ball of Santa Ana. The campaign was waged principally over the fact that Hartman voted against the Metropolitan water bill, which was a measure providing machinery for the organization of a district of cities to bring water from the Colorado river to Southern California cities for domestic use. It generally is conceded by those who have read Hartman's statement, just issued, that he can be counted on by the Richardson forces, in Sacramento, this week, to reverse his vote on the Finney reservations. Both Senator Johnson and Congressman Swing, authors of the Swing-Johnson bill, have issued statements saying that the removal of the reservations at this time would harm instead of help Boulder dam legislation in Washington.

Hartman's statement follows in full:
Vision Being Fogged
To the layman it looks as though California and the United States have looked horns over the Boulder dam situation, but a careful analysis of the question leads to the conclusion that individual political interests are using this great economic project for the advancement of personal programs. Some one or some group certainly is fogging the vision of about half the population of California, for there can not be any great difference of opinion among us as to the great need of the proposed conservation of water, protection against flood and protection of power in the tributary country about the Colorado river.

The project certainly is large enough and the possibilities for vast benefits, wealth and improvement in the entire basin of the Colorado are such that there should be the closest co-operation among all parties.

Unfortunately the most bitter dissensions are not only inter-state and inter-sectional in this state, but even in the great Imperial valley, which is constantly threatened from both ends of the water question—at one season drought menaces the crops and at another de-

Concert Plans to Be Discussed at Meeting of P.-T. A.

Executives and officers of the Santa Ana city federation of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, and presidents of the various local associations in the county will meet Wednesday night in the Y. W. C. A. hall, Sycamore street (Masonic temple), to discuss plans for the launching of a series of popular-priced concerts in the city during the coming winter months.

The objective of this undertaking, Mrs. Fay R. Spangler, president of the city federation, explained, is to install a love for good music as well as create music appreciation. The meeting will be addressed by Clarence Gubkin, Santa Ana musician, who is interested in the movement. The meeting is open to all musicians and music lovers, as well as to all other citizens interested in the promotion of good music.

CO-EDS RESENT ALLEGATIONS THAT CONSPICUOUS DRESS IS WORN BY GIRLS OF POLY HIGH

Poly high school co-eds are up in arms. The students are denying the charges being made concerning new fads here. With heated protests they object to insinuations that the girls are wearing "conspicuous dress" and that the mode among the boys of going unshaven is becoming popular.

A resolution was signed by cabinet officers of the Girls' league, representing all the girls in the school, voicing their disapproval. "It's disgusting," declared Miss Edith Alton, advisor of the Girls' league, in commenting on the statements that the new fad had met the favor of the Santa Ana students.

Girls' Second Advisor
Miss Gayle Baldwin, president of the Girls' league, with the other cabinet officers, seconded the advisor. Even Principal D. K. Hammond has taken steps to have the impression that the students are wearing unbecoming dress and encouraging fads, tending to injure the standards of the school, corrected.

"We are not troubled with indecency in dress among the students," Hammond asserted. "The Girls' league has taken that in its own hands. To say that the students here are lax in their standards of dress and conduct is resented by the authorities of the city junior high schools, because at these schools the students are supervised in their dress."

"When a student here does not wear conventional dress, the Girls' league brings pressure to bear to force her to abide by the school standards."

The sessions of the league cabinet resolved itself into an indignation meeting when the charges were brought to the attention of the girls. The resolution is as follows:

Object to Article
"We, members of the Girls' league cabinet of the Santa Ana high school, hereby desire to express, in behalf of the girls of the school, our objection to an article which appeared in a Los Angeles paper. We feel that the article, through erroneous statements and misrepresentation of facts, is a definite affront to the standards and ideals of our organization. We hereby assert that two names mentioned are not Santa Ana high school boys, Stanislaus Doerr and Rudolph Romo. Further, we resent the insinuation that the girls of the high school are dressing conspicuously in a manner which might be taken as the subject of criticism in such an article."

The article referred to told of three Santa Ana youths, Stanislaus Doerr, Randolph Bell and Rudolph Romo, wearing beards and girls wearing bobby skirts and hip pockets.

Members of the Girls' league cabinet especially resented the notoriety given the Santa Ana school, Miss Baldwin declared. They do not want to be known as coming from the school "where the girls wear bobby skirts with suspenders and the boys don't shave."

DOESN'T PAY FINE; DRAWS $15 EXTRA

When W. E. Marlar, 1666 Lagoon street, Wilmington, was arrested Saturday, at his home, by Pat Hurd, state traffic officer, it was for failure to pay a fine of $25 levied against him by Justice Kenneth Morrison several weeks ago for an alleged traffic violation.

Marlar asked for "time" and it was given him, but the "time" ran out, so Justice Kenneth Morrison issued a warrant for his arrest.

Yesterday, when Marlar was brought before Justice Morrison, after staying one night in the Orange county jail, he found that "interest" on the original fine had grown considerably, and it was $40 that Marlar paid into the county treasury instead of the original $25.

MAN SUES FOR DAMAGES DUE TO WINDBREAK

Windbreaks are fine things if you live on their lee side. But get on the stormy side of them and then see how you like it.

This new view of the rancher's blessing—windbreaks—was presented today in superior court when W. H. Dotter, rancher near Orange, filed suit against his neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Chros Schroeder, to secure an injunction and $2500 damages on account of a tall cypress hedge maintained by the Schroeders along their property line.

Dotter's ranch is on the stormy side of the windbreak, where the wind strikes and bounces back, he says. Getting a hot, magnetized hurricane on the first bounce is no fun, if one believes Dotter's complaint. It isn't the best thing for orange trees, either, according to Dotter. He claims that he annually pays heavy toll in loss of fruit as the price of being neighbor to the Schroeders and their cypress hedge.

Part of this, he says, comes from playing backdrop for the electric winds that bounce off the Schroeder hedge. More of it, he claims, results from the eternal shade cast over a portion of his grove by the towering cypress trees, which are from 50 to 75 feet tall and extend along the property line for 600 feet. Further damage, he alleges, comes from the far-flung cypress roots, under ground, which impoverish his soil and starve the first two rows of orange trees.

Dotter wants the Schroeders restrained from maintaining the cypress hedge. He asks $2500 damages for what he claims to have suffered in the past.

Attorney D. G. Wettlin represents Dotter in the court action.

RANCHER SAYS OIL OVERFLOW RUINED LANDS

Where bountiful crops once grew, the coming of oil brought desolation to the land of W. S. Hill, of Huntington Beach.

Hill has just filed suit in superior court against four oil companies, the Union, Shell, California Petroleum and Chicksan, asking a total of $60,000 damages. He claims that oil from the leases overflowed and laid waste to his lands and crops during the last three years. The damage, he alleges, amounted to $15,000. It is laid at the door of each oil company and he has sued each company for $15,000. Attorneys L. A. West and B. Z. McKinney, of Santa Ana, represent him.

Prior to 1921, Hill's complaints allege, his land produced crops that netted him $6000 annually. He had installed a tiling system for drainage and the soil had become very fertile, he says.

Then came the discovery of oil and the beginning of operations on the leases, located less than a mile south of his property. Down through the ravines and gullies from the hilly oil lands to the south came, shortly, a flow of devastating crude oil, liberally mixed with briny sea water, the waste from the wells. It didn't help the flat seven acres belonging to Hill. Petroleum proved poor fertilizer, the rancher claims. It not only snuffed out his crops, but ruined his land and the tiling, he says.

MILK RATING IN ORANGE COUNTY IS SECOND HIGH IN CALIFORNIA

Score Is Determined from Results of Contest Conducted Throughout State

2 SPECIALISTS ARE COMPETITION JUDGES

Supply Here Is Supervised By Dr. Presson and J. B. Bichan, Dairy Inspector

Of more than ordinary interest to the thousands of milk consumers in Orange county is a report released today by the bureau of dairy control, state department of agriculture, showing that the average milk rating at this time for the county is 95.3 per cent.

The determination of this remarkable high score was obtained as a result of an official surprise milk scoring contest, in which the milk from each distributor was examined from a quality standpoint.

The judges officiating in the contest were Dr. H. P. Bonnikson, market milk specialist, of the bureau of dairy control, Sacramento, and Dr. H. P. Gingerich, of the state department of agriculture, with offices in Los Angeles.

Under County Supervision
Supervision of the Orange county milk supply is maintained by Dr. V. G. Presson, county health officer, and J. B. Bichan, chief dairy inspector.

Commenting upon the high rating given Orange county, only surpassed at this time by one small city district in the state, Dr. Presson made the following comment:

"Quality of rated milk in California today is so uniformly high that there probably is a tendency on the part of many consumers to accept the results as a matter of fact. However, quality never is a matter of chance. The uniformly clean, smooth and pleasing article received by the milk patrons today, where produced under adequate supervision, is a product of combined service on the part of the state and local milk inspecting officials, the milk producer and distributor. The qualities in milk, which have established its value as a perfect food for man, also made it susceptible of contaminating influences when not properly handled. It is only through the co-operation of milk dealers and milk inspecting departments that the public is at all times protected from the possibility of securing an unwholesome product. This is in sharp contrast to the conditions of a few years ago and even today, in those communities not having such protection of local inspection services, it is not uncommon to find milk actually disagreeable in flavor, owing to the use of faulty and careless methods."

Modern methods of inspection and handling of milk have eliminated such faults. The milk problems have multiplied tremendously with the increase in population. The milk itself has advanced from where a few neighbors were served from an open can, with a long-handled dipper, to a system that, in many instances, such as in Orange county, reaches out for

DEPTH OF 300 FEET REACHED BY WELL DRILL

Drilling on the new city water well, located on North Bristol street, south of Santiago creek, today reached a depth of 300 feet, with indications of a substantial water supply, according to Walter Wray, superintendent of the city Water department. The contract for the drilling of the well calls for 500 feet and, in all probability, that depth will be approached before a pump is installed, this to avoid offset from neighboring wells pumped at higher levels, it was intimated.

While the water superintendent was not in position to give any definite figures of the estimated supply of the new Bristol street well, he thought it would register from 130 to 140 inches, or about 1250 gallons per minute.

While continuous efforts are being made by the city authorities to locate new sources of supply to meet increased consumption of water, the water levels in wells now under operation constantly are dropping, inquiries revealed. For this reason, it was said, the East Fourteenth street well, in operation since 1919, has been temporarily abandoned and the pump taken out, pending further disposition.

Voicing his observations on the water situation as reflected in lowering water levels throughout the entire county, the city official stressed the advisability of conservation of the waters of the Santa Ana river. Unless effective steps are taken to store the flood waters during the rainy season, the time is not far off when the county will be facing an acute water shortage, he concluded.

THIEVES GET $200 CLOTHING, SILVER

Sheriff's officers are working on clues which they hope will lead to the arrest of thieves who Sunday night entered the home of Fred Cole, Lamson road, one and one-half miles northeast of Garden Grove, and stole approximately $200 worth of clothing and silverware.

A report of the robbery was made at the sheriff's office yesterday afternoon. Dan Adams, deputy sheriff, made an investigation.

Entrance to the house was gained after the rear door had been taken from its hinges, according to Adams.

MEXICAN SHEIKS FINED BY JUDGE

Daniel Mendoza was fined $50; Ernest Rangle, $30; E. Rodarte, $50, and S. Contreras, $50.

SELDOM has an electorate had a chance to determine its intelligence as it will have in the coming elections. Many of the measures are of vital importance. This is a distinct challenge to the value of the ballot.

In a recent election, we are credibly informed, 268,000 voters voted for a DEAD man for a judgeship.

P-u-s-s-o-n-l-y, we have decided opinions on the issues affecting our Highways. But as your own judgment has been proven unquestioned in the tires you have purchased from us, we have no doubt as to the result of your vote on the highway measures.

California's celebrated system of highways is all the more enjoyable to wheels that have been infested with rubber-that-is-rubber—and we personally guarantee both of them.

AT THE THEATERS

Scene from Cecil B. DeMille's production, "The Volga Boatman."

WEST END THEATER
The scores of thousands who enjoyed Opie Read's famous literary classic, "The Wives of the Prophet," will have a chance to see this amazing story told on the screen. It is about Howard Bryce, who had to choose between marrying five tender maidens or suffer death. Of course it is spectacular as well as thrilling in the extreme. A selected cast includes Alice Lake, Violet Mesereau, Orville Caldwell, Mary Thurman, Maurice Costello, Ruth Stonehouse.

WEST COAST-WALKER
"Thunder Mountain," a thrilling tale of the Kentucky hill country, adapted by William Fox from the John Golden stage success "Howdy Folks," will be shown for the first time tonight at the West Coast-Walker theater.

Into this fascinating picture is woven the romance of a little circus waif and an idealistic mountain lad, together with that of an ignorant little mountain girl and her father's feudal enemy, the thrilling battles of the Givens Gang and the very human comedy found in the crude ways of the people who live on Thunder Mountain.

There are many favorites included in the all-star cast who so ably portray the characters. Madge Bellamy heads the list as Azalea, the little circus girl—Leslie Fenton, one of the most promising of the younger generation of male stars, plays opposite her in the role of Sam Martin, the mountain lad whose ambition is to clean up Thunder Mountain.

Paul Panzer, the villain of the famous "Perils of Pauline" is Morgan, the evil owner of the little two-ring circus from which Azalea runs away. Alec Francis is the loving old circuit-rider whose kindly influence and religious "Ma" MacBirney and Dan Mason her henpecked spouse represent.

Zasu Pitts is Mandy, the little mountain girl, and Otis Harlan is Jeff Coulter, her father, whose one ambition in life is to kill her sweetheart, Dick Babb, (Maine Geary).

Arthur Houseman is Joe Givens, leader of the notorious Givens Gang and Jay Hunt the "Lightnin' Bill Jones" of the screen is the little old clown Azalea's father.

Victor Schertzinger directed the production. On the stage is Fanchon and Marco's "Idea" featuring Armstrong and Phelps known as "Two Boys from Hollywood." They do comedy numbers as well as harmony bits that are absolute "show-stoppers."

Another charming addition to Fanchon and Marco's list of artists is Miss Holly Hall, who is a "blues singer" of note. The Sun-kist Beauties, as usual, form their part of the act, and have some new and different numbers that are a riot. On the whole, this is a great show of comedy and fun.

Sharing honors with the others from Hollywood is his hand in a new arrangement of music and foolshness.

YOST BROADWAY
No, it is not an advertising agent, but Cecil B. De Mille himself who comes forward with the unqualified statement that, in his opinion, "The Volga Boatman," his latest independent screen production, is the greatest picture he has ever filmed. "I know such a statement sounds like a billboard," says the producer of "The Ten Commandments," "Manslaughter," "The Road to Yesterday," "Why Change Your Wife," and other successes. "But inasmuch as I have only made this very broad statement once before in my career of fifty pictures, perhaps the underline will be accepted."

Why He Makes Prediction
"My enthusiasm for 'The Volga Boatman' is rooted about several pertinent points. First, here we have an opportunity for all the gorgeous drama, which made the success of such French revolution stories as 'Scaramouche' and 'Tale of Two Cities,' brought down to modern times and immediately within the understanding and sympathy of the hundreds of millions who have seen in their own time the cataclysmic tragedy of Russia. Gorgeous Chance for Romance

"Second, what a gorgeous chance for romance, a Volga Boatman, a human mule, thrown together with a princess of the blood when servant became master and master servant! And all of this great romance, played out in modern clothes against the red background of a modern social overthrow. Think back over the great romances of the French revolution, how all of them have been successful in stories and on the stage, and then consider the possibilities inherent in a modern French revolution."

"Third, I covet this opportunity because as yet it has been comparatively neglected in literature and art."

Stirring Folk Song

TRUCK DRIVER IS PENALIZED BY MORRISON

Charged with leaving a partially filled truck on the highway, A. P. McClellan, driver, was fined $100 in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court, yesterday afternoon. A. Hefler, McClellan's employer, was given a $25 fine on a charge of operating a truck on the state highway without a rear license plate.

The truck was found abandoned near Placentia, several days ago, by Pat Hurd, state traffic officer. After tracing ownership, Hurd arrested McClellan in Los Angeles, Saturday. He returned yesterday and arrested the owner, Hefler.

McClellan was in jail here Sunday night. Hefler also was arrested on a charge of leaving a truck parked on the boulevard, but that charge was dismissed.

According to Hurd, the truck was left in such position that pipe in the truck, protruded into the road, endangering the lives of motorists. The truck was found during a heavy fog, Hurd stated.

The fine assessed against Hefler probably is the largest ever given for failure to have a license plate, it was said.

RICHARDSON IS SUPPORTED BY S. C. HARTRANFT

astating flood is an impending possibility. I have just received this letter, which speaks for itself:

Barbara Worth Hotel,
710 Main St., El Centro, Calif.
October 16, 1926.

Hon. S. C. Hartranft,
R. F. D. 1, Fullerton, Calif.

Dear Sir:

I am the owner of 320 acres of the finest quality of soil in the Imperial valley, and this has been my home almost continuously for the past 12 years, so naturally, I am deeply concerned as to the outcome of the special session of the state legislature to convene on the twenty-second of this month.

In Favor of Ratification
It is my sincere desire that you vote in favor of the unconditional ratification of the six states compact on that date. I make this appeal to you not as a supporter of any special interest, but I sincerely believe it will further the progress of the whole southwest, the state of California and the Imperial valley in particular. The southwest wants the other part of the country to do something for them to make progress, but California and Arizona have given the jealous east a good excuse for not supporting our plan.

The lack of technical engineering knowledge and the failure to heed the warning and advice of expert engineers, by well-meaning but ill-advised local officials, together with alarming political propaganda circulated by them in the southwest, has placed the safety of all of the land owners here, including themselves, in a very serious condition. Furthermore, the result has shaken the confidence of our financial backers to the point of much suffering in the valley. It is my opinion your support of the unconditional ratification of the compact will help materially to relieve us of this danger and suffering.

Yours truly,

J. D. ADAMS.

On the other hand there are equally as urgent requests in opposition.

Governor Richardson has called the legislature in extraordinary session with a view of removing the barrier which makes it impossible to get government action. The Finney resolution, passed by the legislature in 1925, was supported in good faith under the impression that congress would at once act upon the Colorado river development program.

Nearly two years have passed and the work is even more remote than it was then. Congress appears to be bound by section 4a of the Swing-Johnson bill, which was reported favorably by the senate committee and which is as follows:

"No work shall be begun and no moneys expended on or in connection with the works or structures provided in this act and no water rights shall be claimed or initiated hereunder, and no steps shall be taken by the United States or by others to initiate or prevent claims to the use of water pertinent to such works or structures until the states of California, Colorado, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming have approved the Colorado river compact mentioned in section 12 hereof and shall have consented to a waiver of the provisions of the first paragraph of Article XI of said compact, which makes the same binding and obligatory only when approved by each of the seven states mentioned in section 12 and shall have approved said compact without condition save that of such six-state approval and until the president, by public proclamation, shall have so declared."

The six-state compact has been ratified without conditions by the legislatures of Nevada, New Mexico, Colorado, Utah and Wyoming. The resolution, which is the crux of the situation, after citing a waiver of the former compact, says:

"And said compact shall become binding and obligatory upon the state of California when by act, or resolution of their respective legislatures at least six of the signatory states which have approved or to which may hereafter consent to such waivers and the congress of the United States shall have given its consent and approval; provided, however, that said Colorado river compact shall not be binding nor obligatory upon the state of California by this or any former approval thereof, or in any event until the president of the United States shall certify (a) that the congress of the United States has duly authorized and directed the construction by the United States of a dam in the main stream of the Colorado river at or below Boulder canyon adequate to create a storage reservoir of capacity not less than 20,000,000 acre feet of water, and (b) that the congress of the United States has exercised the power and jurisdiction of the United States to make the terms of said Colorado river compact binding and effective as the waters of the said Colorado river."

The situation seems to be deadlocked because it is apparent that the other states will not consent to legislation until a provision is assured for the rights of the several states.

I believe the call of the legislature for the purpose of removing the difficulty in the way is justified so that congress may have the opportunity to take action during the short session.

I have little hope for legislation looking to the Colorado river development until the petty jealousies, which seem to be obstructing it, are removed and a broad-minded agreement is entered into.

FRANCIS WILLARD

Give Program
Last Friday the assembly program at Francis Willard junior high school was put on by the 5th class under the direction of Miss Grace Smiley. Maxine Smith and Virginia Golden were the announcers. A humorous play "You're Pined" was given by Helen Slabaugh and Jack McFadden. Eugene Wood and Jack McFadden took the parts very well. Next a very amusing little play entitled, "The Truth in 1926," was given by Helen Slabaugh, Walter Wilson, Herbert Sammis, Norman Paul and Irene McCauley. A piano solo by Mary Jane Nickel was highly appreciated. A burlesque on Romeo and Juliet was put on by Bill Wallingford and Edgar Wenzlaff. Eugene McCauley favored with a piano solo, "Trelude in C Minor." The last number was a tragedy in three acts which was very well acted.

The girls were all interested and asked many questions.

JULIA LATHROP

Courtesy Week
As a closing feature of the courtesy campaign which has been conducted during the past week at Lathrop, a courtesy student body assembly was held Friday. After a short business meeting the program began with a song by the Boys' Glee club under Miss Edith Cornell's direction. Clever pantomimes of courtesy in the cafeteria and in the home were given by members of the low nine class with the help of Miss Kline and Miss Anderson who had charge of the entire program. After a piano solo by a member of the low seven class, original essays and themes on Courtesy were read by members of the seventh, eighth and ninth grade English classes. These were chosen as the best from among the efforts of all the English classes in school. At the end of the day those who had kept their courtesy tags during the entire week were entitled to extra merits and the winning side was given a party.

WHAT IS COURTESY?

This question has been asked of some of the greatest men the world has ever known and this is what they have said: "Courtesy is a fine regard and respect for the rights, feelings and property of others."

The fewer people there are around you, the less use you have for courtesy, but the instant that you come in contact with other people you have to think of your manners. For instance, if you are alone on ten acres of land you are free to wave your arms in all directions and not hit or perturb anyone. Now try doing the same thing on the corner of Fourth and Main streets on a busy Saturday afternoon and you certainly will receive a "left hook" from the first person you hit.

We must also think before we hurt anyone's feelings as the famous English author, Charles Lamb, did. When asked by a fond mother how he liked babies, he said: "Boiled, madam, boiled." He lost a friend not because he meant to hurt her feelings, but because he loved a joke.

During the tourist season several complaints come to different cities accusing the traffic policeman of being discourteous. Minneapolis has adopted a system of traffic courtesy which has thus far won the friendship of thousands of tourists who visit that city. Each officer is supplied with green tags. As he stands in his place or intersection, he hands a green tag to those that he recognizes as being tourists. The tourists are usually alarmed at this procedure, but upon investigation find it to be a welcome of a reference department where they are met by very courteous librarians who are able to give them all information concerning roads and special interests in that state. They are also given maps. This proves the point that courtesy is service. This mode of courtesy not only is of service, but it is also an asset to the city.

If a city can find a way to be courteous—certainly we can. We want our students to be distinguished for their good manners. It would certainly raise the standard of our school a great deal if some of you would be a little more liberal with your "thank you's." Never forget to say "thank you" to your teacher when she has done something for you—this is to show that you appreciate it. Perhaps you know how it feels when you do something for someone who doesn't even thank you. I think that if you treat others as you would be treated you would find the true key to courtesy.

They say that an educated heart is courteous. Test yourself by the way you practice these rules:

1. Do not pout when asked to do something which seems unpleasant.
2. Do not tease those who are deformed or crippled or who are weaker than yourself.
3. Do not laugh at the mistakes or failures of others.
4. Do not boast when you win in a contest, or whine when you are beaten.
5. Do not crowd and push through doorways.
6. Do not look over another's shoulder to see what he is reading or writing.
7. Do not interrupt a person speaking.
8. Do not flatly contradict anyone.
9. Do not listen at doors or windows to conversations which you are not expected to overhear.

I hope that something I have said will help some of you in deciding what true courtesy is. Now try to make yourselves better citizens for Lathrop.

Touch Football

Most of the regular class periods are spending time in free play, "touch-football," volley ball and tennis. The greatest interest has been shown in touch-football. This class has its own team and this, of course, furthers the competitive spirit of the game. Boys play in their gymnasium suits and conform to the official football rules, substituting for tackling—touching the man with both hands. This procedure often associated with football and at the same time familiarizes the boys with the rules and with the game.

Class Activities

The manual training department reports from woodwork, practice in exercises in different joints and figuring board feet. A new floor has been put into the shop and work is beginning in real earnest. The electricity class is taking work in bell wiring, house wiring, study of dry cells and storage batteries. Practical use of this knowledge follows this introductory work. In home mechanics a start has been made in the making of watch fobs using nitric acid for etching the design. The boys are anxious to start their work with silver in order to accomplish things before Christmas. Some of them have already started work on bookends.

Bouquet of Flowers

The Venture Forth club sent a bouquet of flowers to the Live Wire club. May Gifford, president of the Venture Forth club, presented them, and Glenn Bishop, president of the Live Wire club, made a little speech thanking her club for the flowers. ### Pictures

On Tuesday the high sixth went to the dark room to see a moving picture. They saw a reel of film on New England. On Friday they had pictures again. This time they saw pictures of London, rural England and Mexico. The teacher showing the pictures was Miss Lindsay, the geography teacher.

Richard White

Classes have been making a study of California history. The following original poem was contributed by one of its members, Inez Sneve.

California

California, the land of flowers, Of hills and valleys, winds and showers. Of everything quite fair to see, California, you for me!

California, the Golden State When I come I'll not be late. I'll come and view your scenery fair, California, I'll be there!

California, the state so fair, California, I'll be there, Come, let us make the highways hum, California, here I come.

Class Holds Debate
Miss Blythe's 4W. English class held a spirited debate during study of the play, "Julius Caesar." The question, "Resolved, that Antony was a better patriot than Brutus," brought out a great deal of worth while argument and furnished some valuable experience in debate.

Following the assembly Friday all of the typing students were given a McQuarrie Test in Mechanical Skill. As there were too many to be accommodated in one room at one time Mr. Fisk, dean of the Santa Ana junior college, gave the test to the girls during the first period, and Mr. Bolling, also of the junior college, gave the test to the boys during the third period.

Miss Carl reports that the typing students are exemplifying a very fine Lathrop spirit in their work. The advanced students are contributing to the various departments of the school by typing and cutting stencils for the teachers.

Physical Education
Work in the various departments is showing an added impetus from the student body activities. The boys' physical education department is at the present time making preparations for physical examinations. When this has been accomplished it will be possible to assign to each student that type of exercise which will be the most beneficial to his physical needs. At the present time each student is being given a certain amount of corrective exercise which is conducive to good posture.

Confidential Chats With Children

By C. L. Beattie

"I don't see how it is the members of your family tell you everything," Mrs. Strong had been sitting on the veranda when Nell and George had come in from a tennis match. Of course, some children are like that, born that way, I suppose," she continued. "My family never tells me a thing. Ever since they were tiny mites they have kept their own counsels. Of course, they are just like their father. He is so reserved."

That night, after my grown-up son and daughter had come to my room to say good-night, and the house was still and dark, my mind raced back over the years to the time when my children were little more than babies. For three years I was an invalid. I had to sit still and see the world go by and how I fretted for fear the children would grow away from me and would contract habits I could never break. Their father, too, was reserved, and possibly that hurt me as much as my illness. I couldn't go out and see the things he was seeing, or meet the people he was meeting. Every day we seemed a little further apart. One whole evening he never spoke a word though there was no estrangement. I made up my mind then that so far as in me lay my children should be taught to be frank and free and chatty, and that frankness should not mean gossiping or tale-bearing.

Every day when the children came in from school or play, I would ask them what pleasant things had happened while they were out. If unpleasant things were told, as they were bound to be occasionally, we passed them over as lightly as possible. If little playmates had been rough and rude, if teachers had not been quite appreciative, why that was a pity, but if Nell and George would try to be a little kinder and better there was no doubt but that things would improve. I tried to show them that it was always the one who did the unkind or selfish thing who really needed pity. It was he who was unhappy. And of course teachers could not always tell how much work went into a lesson. Children are usually fairly just and with a little help see both sides of a problem.

Then we made a game of this telling. I was in it, too, and for the one who made the best record during the week there was a little prize. By and by they wanted "Daddy" added. I was a "doubting Thomas." Did I not remember our long evening without a word? I kept my doubts to myself, however, for which I was very thankful, because the plan worked.

After the evening meal was over, we chatted. These chats were stiff and formal at first, or so they seemed to me, but it was not long before we all looked forward eagerly to those few minutes "between the dark and the daylight." It was the only time in the busy day when father and children met. Barriers were broken down. Possibly my husband would have liked to have broken those barriers many a time before, but years of repression had done their fatal work. Reserved people when they do throw off their reserve seem to say so much more than they intended and are so abashed at their temerity that they retreat further than ever into their shells. But the confidences of little children are not only contagious but reassuring.

Our "experience meeting" as we called them continued all through childhood days, getting longer and fuller as the years went on. Father is gone now, the hour is gone, the glorious fleeting days of childhood are past, but the effect of those confidences will go on forever. Some day my boy and girl will be in homes of their own and the memory of the twilight hour spent with Father and Mother will influence the lives of their boys and girls.

Maybe my children were just naturally frank. Possibly, as Mrs. Brown said, "They were born that way." Maybe, without training they would have been the same. Who can tell? But had they not been, by the time I had found it out, the habit of reserve would have been established, and it would have been too late to have brought about such happy results.

John Muir P-T. A. held its first meeting of the year Tuesday, October 12, at the John Muir school. The session was called to order by the new president, Mrs. Wentworth. After a short business meeting a program was presented by students in the fourth grade. Numbers included musical selections and a geography drill. There was a question box, the questions in which will be answered at the next meeting. Refreshments were served by mothers of fourth grade students.

Lowell

Entertainment and hand shaking took the place of business at the evening meeting of the Lowell school P-T. A. on October 14th. Community singing opened the program. Miss Etta Conkle charmed her audience with three songs as did Miss Evelyn Erikson with a group of readings, humorous and expressive.

In a splendid talk J. A. Cranston pointed out the benefits to be gained by participating in P-T. A. work. He also complimented the association upon being the first to accept his challenge to secure a hundred per cent membership. A pleasing closing number was a group of songs by Mr. Maurice Phillips, in his inimitable manner. Miss Elizabeth Parslow's accomplishments gave added enjoyment.

Most of the teachers were present to greet parents, but the principle, Miss Mildred Mead, was unable to attend. Miss Mead is rapidly recuperating from her illness, however.

Jefferson

The Jefferson school held its P-T. A. meeting last Thursday, with an attendance of thirty-one mothers. The time was taken up by various announcements of things which they expect to accomplish this year. The annual Jefferson fair is being boosted and the P-T. A. will be busy making this a success.

ANAHEIM H. S. STUDENTS SEE PAPER PRINTED

ANAHEIM UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Oct. 19.—Last Friday, October 8, the members of the Journalism and printing classes of Anaheim Union high school attended the first vocational guidance conference, as guests of the Los Angeles Times. The members of the faculty who attended were Miss Rumsey, Mrs. Watson, Mrs. Hesselink, and Mrs. Ross. Those of the Journalism and printing classes who took the trip were Norma Palmer, Walter Taylor, Doris Massey, Joe Shea, Leone Nelson, Claude Taylor, Nellie Sackett, "Hoots" Helling, Ed Searley, and Ralph Daugherty.

They arrived at the Times building shortly before 5:30 o'clock and were taken immediately to the radio rooms.

The radio department of the Times consists of a control room, an office, a studio and a reception room. The control room is lined with switches, meters, generators and other necessities for placing the voice on the air. This room was on the top floor. From it is an incline which leads one up on to the very roof, where are located other rooms. The office is decorated with pictures of the KJH celebrities.

The studio is simply, but attractively furnished. At one corner stands the piano, while on a movable stand is the "mike," in front of which there has been many an artist. "This here that Charlie Wellman, Claire Mellon, and many others made their debut. One wall almost the entire length of the room, consists of a large sheet of plate glass, and on the other side is the reception room where the visitors are allowed to watch the artists.

Going from the radio room at about 6 p. m. the students were taken on a tour of inspection into the printing and proof-reading rooms.

From there they were taken into the rooms where the prints were put together. Here also the mats were put into the molds and the lead poured upon them; then the molds were pressed into the lead. The lead plates were put on the press and inked, after which the paper was passed over them.

From this room the students went down into the photography department. On the lower floor the papers are arranged, according to pages, then according to sections. At 7 o'clock the guests assembled at the La Palma cafe where luncheon was served.

Speakers of the vocational guidance conference gave talks on the advantages of taking Journalism. After the adjournment the group from A. U. H. S. decided it was much too early to go home, so they went to the Hillstreet theatre, thus rounding out an enjoyable trip. It was a little late when they got home—so late that it was early.

VOLLEY BALL AT GROVE CONTINUES

By RUTH ANDRES
GARDEN GROVE UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Oct. 19.—Sophomores and freshmen started again in inter-class volleyball games held last week. Wednesday's volleyball game was between the sophomores and juniors. Both sides fought hard but the sophomores won with a score of 15 to 15.

Thursday night the seniors and freshmen played. The seniors did not seem to take the game very seriously. Although they played hard, the score was 47 to 20 in favor of the freshmen.

URGES S. A. TO TAKE PART IN JR. REGISTER

Here is an interesting letter, very much to the point:

2075 No. Main St., Santa Ana, Calif., October 12, 1926.

Editor, The Santa Ana Register, Santa Ana, Calif.

Dear Sir: I do not know who the editor of the "Junior Register" is or I would write to him about this matter.

I have been reading the Junior Register with much interest. As a student of Santa Ana high school, I have been disappointed not to see any news concerning it. I realize that most of the sporting news and such are on the other pages of The Register, but why are there no editorials, stories, features, etc? I do not think it is a lack of talent, as I feel sure that there is plenty of it. What is the reason? I hope Santa Ana High is not barred, because it says it is the news of high school students of Orange county.

As a busy man, I hope you will not disregard this appeal. A small notice or editorial might help to arouse Santa Ana students to realize that they are behind in their duty to the Junior Register.

Yours truly,

JOHN W. DUNLAP.

Thanks, Mr. Dunlap!

The Santa Ana high school news is of such great local interest that it is carried every day in The Register as Santa Ana news, and is not held for an appearance once a week.

If all the Santa Ana high school news of genuine interest were to be carried in the Junior Register there would not be enough space left, certainly not enough to encourage the student writers in other schools. Alfred Ault, a junior college student, writes the high school and junior college news in Santa Ana.

Perhaps, if the Santa Ana high school Journalism students asked for it, The Register would set aside a special section for the news especially written by the Journalism students for publication. The editor of the Junior Register has no control over the local policies of the paper but it certainly would do no harm to ask for the space.

Undoubtedly if the Junior Register is of assistance to the Journalism students of other county high schools it would be to the Santa Ana high school students, but the Junior Register would not attempt to force itself upon anyone.

One of the chief functions of this paper is to acquaint the parents, as well as the students, with what is going on in the schools, for the parents pay the bills and want to know what it is all about. Perhaps the parents might like Santa Ana high school news to appear in The Register. The parents of the students in the county schools seem to be very much interested.

HAT MAKING IS STUDIED AT H. B.

By EVELYN MANSON
HUNTINGTON BEACH UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Oct. 19.—The second year sewing class, which includes millinery and advanced dress making, under the direction of Miss Warner, has for the past week been working out their first problem, hats.

The girls first made the crowns out of unbleached muslin and the brims out of paper so they can get an idea of the shape which best suits them. After they finish that, they will be ready to begin work on their real hats, which will be very soon, as they have many problems ahead of them for this year.

FACULTY AT GARDEN GROVE HIGH SCHOOL SEEKS TO ELEVATE STANDARD OF EDUCATIONAL COURSES

Upper Left—The members of the Class B football team, coached by L. L. Doig, credit their chances in the Orange county league to Trixie, their mascot. Upper right—Trixie with her master, Leonard Natland, with whom she has gone to school through eight years in the grammar grades and two years in high school. Center—Albert Messerall, varsity football captain. Lower left—Miss Esther Cockenham and Miss Agnita Wheeler, pretty co-eds. Lower right—Miss Ruth Ryan on the tennis courts.

Orange Peals

ORANGE UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Oct. 19.—An interesting problem in accounting is being worked out by Miss Hotchkiss and Mrs. Klein in the home economics department this year. Individual accounts are being kept conscientiously for the accurate results are to be used to obtain an average cost for each of the four years in high school for a girl in Southern California. The girls are hoping to secure enough of these studies that they may be able to contribute them to some research publication in household budgeting.

The Girl Scouts held a meeting at the gymnasium last Wednesday, period A. Two new officers were elected during the meeting. Ruth Stoner, secretary, and Helen Baker, treasurer. The Scouts have decided to dress up dolls and put them in the different store windows for advertisements. Meetings are to be held once a month at the homes of the members.

"Brick" McCoy was elected captain of the 130-pound team last week. He plays one of the tackle positions. McCoy has showed up very well in the games that they have played so far, and he will probably show up just as well in the rest of the games. He is one of the men back from the 130-pound team of last year. He kicks off for the team, and also does the punting. He is captain of a good team, and may lead them to a championship.

Our coaches are now "sporting" new uniforms. These outfits consist of gray trousers and gray jerseys. The jerseys have small emblems, designating that the wearer is a coach. These uniforms make our coaches look very handsome as well as official. All the large schools have adopted the idea of having special outfits for their coaches, so why should O. U. H. S. remain behind time?

Football Rally At Beach School Is Big Success

By MYRNA RITCHEY
HUNTINGTON BEACH UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Oct. 19.—Last Friday afternoon a football rally was held at the high school assembly room. Keith Farrar, new student body president, presided over the meeting. This was his first appearance as presiding officer.

Mr. Drake, the science instructor gave a few pointers on football and Mr. Sheue in a hoarse voice, gave a brief talk for his boys. He urged the student body to "stick" with them.

In the rally many clever ideas were used. The Boys' Glee club dressed in football garb, entered the stage in formation and sang a song for Anaheim. The title of the song was "Anaheim Before the Game." The words were of their own composition but the melody was that of "The Prisoners Song." Later they returned limping and rubbing sore muscles and sang a song entitled "Anaheim After the Game." The boys brought much applause and then the members of the team returned to the field for practice.

Mrs. Harlow and the Girls' Glee club led the students in school songs, and the yells were led by Angelo Mollica and Sidney Schwartz.

Argonaut Notes From Garden Grove

By GRACE JILES
GARDEN GROVE UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Oct. 19.—A masquerade party honoring the juniors is being planned by the seniors, to be given in Dozier's barn, October 22 at 8 o'clock. A forfeit must be paid by those who arrive late.

Mr. Doig explained a plan for the betterment of conduct in the study hall, at a general assembly held Wednesday. This was followed by a short account of the two trips Mr. Hoenschel enjoyed during the summer vacation.

"The Revelisque" was the name selected by the All American Club for a vaudeville to be given in behalf of the student body on Friday night, October 23. This is to consist of many interesting stunts given by the students of different departments.

Dennison crepe paper work is to be taken up by the Domestic Science Club under the instruction of Miss Fies. At their last meeting members of the club chose Alice Donahue for President and Edith Chastain for secretary.

Art students, under the direction of Miss Hoffman, are having a most interesting study. Second year students are drawing lay-figures, which they intend to dress, while the first year students are taking up perspective work and are drawing houses. The second year students will soon begin work on the annual.

As school starts again so does the Spanish club with Anna Phillips as the president. The club expects to have a year full of activities. An amendment to the constitution permits all who have taken or are taking Spanish to join.

Last night a most exciting sack rush was held between the freshmen and sophomore boys. Nine sacks were to be used between the nineteen sophomore and nineteen freshmen boys. Winners of two out of three games were the victors. The losers cleaned up the school grounds under bosses consisting of the winners.

TUSTIN HIGH SCHOOL BOYS ARE MEMBERS OF COMPANY VISITING DAVIS STATE FARM

By ALICE PRATHER
TUSTIN UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Oct. 19.—William Poh, sophomore and Elwood Rittner, freshman, are back from a five day's trip to the Davis agricultural college. They are members of the Orange county agriculture club and each received a first prize at the Orange County fair which entitled them to the trip. Elwood Rittner had the best calf, while William Poh the best white leghorn chickens.

Machines were furnished for transportation and the only expense for the boys was their meals. "We had a grand good time," said "Bill" Poh when asked about his trip, "and I'm going again next year, that is if I win again."

"The place we went to was just a big farm. We were assigned to companies where tents served as sleeping quarters. Football, baseball, relay and swimming races, and other games were enjoyed," continued William Poh.

"There were taps at 10 o'clock, although no one went to sleep, and reveille at 6 o'clock in the morning, after which we were put through exercises."

Elwood Rittner was one of the three with the most perfect health in battalion one.

"In the evening there was an assembly where addresses were given to over 300 members. In addition there were stunts, yells, songs and motion pictures."

"Friday was the day for camp inspection, after which we went to several demonstrations. They were on animals, a poultry, husbandry, entomology, agricultural engineering, power, forestry, dairy industry, landscape gardening, crop improvement, nutrition, irrigation, and soils horticulture."

"It ended up by eating dinner and coming home. We had a keen time coming home, although we had five blowouts," said William Poh.

NEW CLUB FORMED AT GROVE SCHOOL

By HILDA MARK
GARDEN GROVE UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Oct. 19.—The organization of the "Independent Club," is a new plan which has been adopted by the student body to overcome the difficulties in the study hall. This plan was originated by the Student Council.

This plan is to relieve students of certain restraints which are used to curb those who cannot be depended upon.

Any student who has a citizenship rating of 90 or above for the preceding quarter may make application to the student council for the privilege of becoming an "Independent."

In case the student council, after a careful examination of his record grants him this privilege he must sign a statement to the effect that he will abide by all school rules and will promise to conduct himself in an orderly manner at all times.

As an "Independent" he should have the privilege to pass from room to room without the use of transfer slips, he may talk without permission and he may study in an unoccupied room provided that he leaves word with the study hall teacher as to his whereabouts.

In case he fails to live up to his obligations the privileges will immediately be taken away for the remainder of the quarter. The council may impose additional penalties in extreme cases.

The arrangement at the present time is not very satisfactory to either the teachers or the students. When going from one room to another a yellow transfer slip is to be filled out as to the time, place and the student's name. The slip must be signed and returned.

The latter part of the period the students in study hall may speak to each other with permission of the teacher. This seems to cause quite a bit of confusion. The new plan will do away with all this and the council expects that by the end of the year every student in school will belong to this club.

NEAT AMOUNT FOR STAFF IS RAISED

By CORDELIA COLE
TUSTIN UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Oct. 19.—Approximately $55 was cleared at the Broadcaster benefit program which, for a picture show, was attended by a record crowd, on Friday, Oct. 15.

Members of the drama class presented a one-act play entitled "Who's a Coward?" with Charlotte Browne, Richard Ford and Ray Coffman playing. This was followed by one of the popular "Our Gang" comedies, "Circus Fever." The quarrel scene from Julius Caesar was presented by James Cole and Dale Park, who were attired in Roman togas and sandals with wicked looking swords at their sides. The picture "Janice Meredith," starring Marian Davies, was then shown. Piano music, during the picture, was furnished by Edith McDonald and Helen Evans.

The program was given in order to raise funds for the support of the Broadcaster.

The Broadcaster staff wishes to express its appreciation to Miss Lindblom and the home economics class who sold canned tomatoes, jelly, and pickles on Friday night. The net returns from the sales will also be presented to the Broadcaster fund.

MORE LOOMS ARE ADDED AT TUSTIN

By LOUISE PROCTOR
TUSTIN UNION HIGH SCHOOL, Oct. 19.—Four new and improved looms have been added to the equipment of the art department of Tustin union high school. On these looms anything from a rag rug to a fine linen towel can be woven. The students are planning to make scarfs, rugs, runners, pillows and towels. The yarns to be used in the weaving of these articles are wool, silk, cotton and any of these combined.

The old colonial patterns which were woven by the great-grandmothers of the present generation are to be used. The past generation may recall having heard of such designs as the "Honeysuckle," the "Chariot-wheel," and the "Diamond."

For centuries all weaving was done on hand-loom and much of it has been judged surpassingly beautiful and rich. We need only mention the Gobelin tapestries of the seventeenth-century France and the rich velvets and silks produced throughout much of Europe after the Renaissance to call to mind the richness and beauty of hand-weaving. Into the tapestries were woven, with cunning art, figures of man and beast, rustic fetes, triumphs at arms, and devotional subjects without end. Even in the time of the ancestors of the present generation, weaving was considered a fine art.

However, since the age of machinery, hand-weaving has not been much heard of. But the demand of today for such articles is reviving a new interest in what is considered almost a lost art.

Factory Folk Need No Pity in Southern California

ARTICLE XI

"Think of one good deed you did on earth," prompted St. Peter, as I stood at the nearby gates. In a dream, my passport was wrong. "Well, I never wrote anything about the drab monotonous lives of people who work in factories," "Come right in!" said St. Peter.

You read a good deal of non-sense about factory work, as being inhuman, automatic, crushing individuality and skill. Most of this pitying stuff is written by uplifters and theorists who could not hold a factory job on skill or brains. Why, all the wonderful things of modern life come out of factories, big and little, and most of the creative power of this country is in factories. Shortcomings? Sure! But give the kid time—the industrial system is young.

"Oh, they're going to spoil Southern California with ugly factories," some of the uplifters are saying. "What a pity! to take the people out of the merry sunshine, and turn them into drudges."

The fact is, I find in going around, that thousands of people here in the Pacific-southwest are glad to hold factory jobs. Those were the kinds of work they had where they came from. Factory work is all they know, and some of the best factory skill in the country is here, eager to help create manufacturing industries.

A textile man told me about making an investigation for a new mill. Sites, raw material, power, fuel, freight rates, construction costs and market were all favorable.

He tested "labor" by inserting a single advertisement in two local papers, and got replies from so many workers skilled in that line, with experience in the east and Europe, that it will be possible to man the mill right here the day the door opens.

This supply of workers is found in every line of wage work, and runs right up into the salary classifications.

A Spring street broker had a problem in his business. As a convenience to customers, a special service was rendered. This service had grown to be an important branch of his business, and he wanted somebody who knew how to run it. One newspaper ad brought 200 replies. He interviewed 20 applicants, and hired a specialist who stood at the very top of that field in the east. Bad health had brought him here, glad to work for a moderate salary, and he is making a profitable business of the special service.

This is a wonderful advantage in starting industries. A hundred years ago, our first manufacturers smuggled skilled British workers to get started. Lack of such workers is a handicap in most of the new countries now establishing factory industries.

But here in Southern California there are workers aplenty, and the only handicap seems to be in executive ability. Many a factory venture has failed for want of capable management. None has failed for want of intelligent, experienced, willing workers, as far as I know.

The folks one finds working in factories here are decidedly above the average in older industrial sections. They are Americans, or the kind of foreign-born who have away from the foreign-language colonies of the east. Spanish is the only other language spoken to any extent, and while the Mexicans are often common laborers, they have a high level of skill too. A woman told me a Mexican blacksmith who made a new spring for her imported car when it came to grief in a small desert town—he did it in a day, with simple tools and the old spring for a pattern.

These folks are not an "industrial class," but neighbors, and the man-to-man spirit rules in dealing with the employer.

"They find it hard on the eyes out here," said the foreman of a small east side factory to his employer. The latter, a professional man, with little factory experience, had hired two dozen men to perform a hand operation and gave them God's great outdoors to work in, thinking that would be healthiest. But the sun was too strong. The foreman suggested an open shed for shelter. In the east there would have been a committee, or a state inspector, or something formal. Here the employer said, "Go ahead; I didn't realize the work would be trying." The shed was built, and everybody was happy. A nice feeling, and it is general. Many of the factories are small, which not only makes for pleasant relations, but creates opportunity. Within five years, who could not hold a factory job on skill or brains. Why, all the wonderful things of modern life come out of factories, big and little, and most of the creative power of this country is in factories. Shortcomings? Sure! But give the kid time—the industrial system is young.

Outside the local factory you see the workers' cars parked—almost everybody goes to work in his or her own "bus." Money wages are generally lower than in eastern industrial sections, by perhaps 10 to 25 per cent, but real wages, measured in comfortable living, are decidedly higher. You hear, again and again, of both wage and salary workers quitting jobs here to go east, at higher pay, and then coming back to the old job and pay because, as one returning pilgrim puts it, "In the east you work a year to live six months, but here you can live 12 months every year."

Savings paid into a home have made more money for factory folks than they received in their pay envelopes over a period of five years. Real estate men will tell you story after story of their thrift, and their judgment. Five years ago when sections more valuable were in the development stage, and business men expressed skepticism as to their future, working people bought on easy terms, and stuck, and have made handsome profits. And they are doing the same thing today in other sections.

No, I cannot feel sorry for the folks who work in Southern California factories! Next week we will see what such work means in this Southland.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: Aaron Burr

Sketches by Redner
Synopsis by Braucher

Near the end of the Revolutionary War, Aaron Burr was married to Theodosia Prevoost, widow of a major in the British army who died in the West Indies soon after the war began. Burr moved in 1783 to New York, taking a house in Maiden Lane when the British troops left the city.

Burr began the study of law and started the long political duel with Alexander Hamilton that pistols were to end.

Burr often was Hamilton's opponent in the courts, as the two men became the leading lawyers of the state.

Mrs. Burr died in 1794. Thereafter Theodosia, the younger, became the confidant and friend of her father. In all the hours of wrecked hope and bitter tragedy that were to hedge Burr's life, she remained his ideal, his consoler and companion. (Continued.)

BEAUTY CHATS

ANSWERED LETTERS

Mrs. A. S. B.—Bleach the tan off your arms by using either cucumber or lemon juice. The reddening of your hands may come from constipation or even from wearing garters that restrict the circulation.

Lucille K.—If you are too thin it would account for your veins showing this fullness when you lower your hands. If your veins are prominent and you are stout, you should consult the doctor about the trouble, as it is not a normal condition for a person as young as you are.

A Student—The pimples and the tendency to enlarged pores at 16 years of age, is likely only a temporary condition. Bathe all over every day, and do not overeat of sweets or other very rich foods. Always close the pores by using very cold water after you have bathed your face and throat.

L. A. You probably need a tonic that has phosphates in it, as your system is lacking in some element that will make your nails more firm. Ask your doctor about this. Continue to rub the cream into them, and use the buffer daily to improve the circulation under them; this extra care will help the condition also.

Catherine S.—A girl of 16-17 years with a height of five feet, five inches, should weigh about 110 pounds or even five pounds more than this. Your work that is confining you for 14 hours each day may be causing you to be in this condition, so you will have to do everything that you can to keep up your health meantime.

Take some time every day for pleasure or other relaxation, sleep in the fresh air, either by opening all the windows or by sleeping outdoors. It is unfortunate that you cannot have milk or eggs as these would help to build up your weight and also your health, but every day, and do not overeat of sweets or other very rich foods.

A tablespoonful of olive oil three times a day will be a fairly good substitute for the foods you cannot get. Take this in orange or lemon juice if you cannot get grape juice and make the amount a tablespoonful of the oil to the same of fruit juice. When cold weather arrives you can shift to cod liver oil if your weight is still so far below normal.

THE HUMAN DYNAMO

I think I understand that steam Has power to drive a ship or train,
The energy within a team
Of horses, too, I can explain.

A sunbeam dancing on the lawn Grows weary towards the end of day,
But, little girl, from early dawn
You never seem to tire of play.

All up and down and in and out
You race through every wakeful hour,
Those little legs don't seem so about
And yet they have tremendous power.

You've run me ragged many a day,
I wonder that I have survived.
Is there an engineer who'd say
Just how such energy's derived?

Machines must rest, but never you,
Your feet a ceaseless patter make,
A thousand tasks a day you do
And yet your spirits never break.
With strength which never seems to fail
From charm to charm you run with glee,
How can a child so small and frail Possess such boundless energy?

Just four years old, and stronger far Than all the grunting grown-ups here,
I'll swear that tireless you are,
And built without one trace of fear.
You race at such a rapid clip
I cannot follow where you go, You've steam enough to run a ship,
You little human dynamo!

MENUS for the FAMILY

By SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST—Honeydew melon, cereal, thin cream, shirred eggs and tomatoes, crisp rye toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Baked macaroni and cheese, graham bread and lettuce sandwiches, caramelized apples, ginger snaps, milk, tea.

Dinner—Baked haddock with cucumber sauce, browned sweet potatoes, cabbage salad, Concord grapes, fudge cake, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

Children under six years of age should be served orange juice or a baked or stewed fruit in place of the melon suggested in the breakfast menu. And of course small persons should not have the sauce served with the dinner fish.

The woman who lives on a farm with apples always at hand will welcome the caramelized apple rule.

Caramelized Apples
One and one-half cups sugar, 1 1-2 cups water, 6 tablespoons chopped nut meats, 6 apples, 1-2 cup whipping cream, 2 tablespoons powdered sugar, 1-4 teaspoon vanilla.

Cook 1 cup sugar with water until a thick syrup. Add apples pared and cored. Turn often and cook over a low fire. When tender but not broken place in a serving dish or on individual plates. Boil the syrup until thick. In the meantime put remaining sugar and nuts into a small iron spider and cook over a hot fire stirring constantly until the sugar melts and discolors. Fill the cavities of the apples with the heavy jelly-like syrup in which they were cooked and pour the caramel mixture over the apples.

Pour any remaining syrup around the fruit and top each apple with a spoonful of cream whipped until stiff and lightly flavored with sugar and vanilla.

A THOUGHT

He that covereth a transgression seeketh love; but he that repeateth a matter separateth very friends.— Prov. 17:9.

Everybody says it, and what everybody says must be true.—
James Fenimore Cooper.

In Holland many women are employed in the brickyards.

THE TINYMITES

BY HAL COCHRAN

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

Once more the night was drawing near, so Coppy shouted, "Have no fear. There are no rabbits in this cave. I've chased the lone one out!" and then the Tiny-mites all cried, "Oh, gee, the cave is dark inside." It sure made Coppy pretty mad to hear them fuss and pout.

"Why, dark won't hurt you," he replied. "I've looked around the whole inside, and nothing's there but grass and weeds with which we'll make our beds." So, thus assured, each Tinymite forgot about his foolish fright. In fact they all were glad to have a place to rest their heads.

They all crawled in and moved around on hands and knees upon the ground. Then Scouty stopped and made a fuss. "Say Coppy, you are fooling us. When you were here before I'll bet you must have had a light."

And then light flashed upon the crowd, as foxy Coppy laughed aloud. "Of course I did," he shouted, as he swung his flashlight round. Then, while he held it over their heads, they all made dandy little beds of grass and weeds and other things that very soon they found.

When this was done, wee Ukey said, "I think, before we go to bed, we ought to have some singing. We can sit beneath the moon."
So, right outside they rushed again, to build a monstrous fire, and then the sound of little voices filled the still air pretty soon.

Now, Ukey, as you may have guessed was always at his very best when he was gaily strumming on his ukulele strings. So, when he started up a tune the Tiny-mites began to croon, and after while they went to bed to dream of funny things.

Queer Quirks of NATURE.

LIKE A HIGHLAND PIPER

Tree Frog

BY ARTHUR N. PACK
President, The American Nature
Association

Many have heard but few have seen the tree frog, for he does not court familiarity, though through most of the summer his cheerful trill rings from our dooryard trees.

When he utters this sprightly call he blows a big bubble in his throat like a Highland piper. If we can contrive to detect him at this time he may allow us to approach near enough to see that his back is marbled and flecked with gray and brown, like the bark on which he rests, and we understand why we have not seen him before.

Should we impose on his privacy he is likely to jump to another limb, or bunch of leaves, and, wherever he lands, there he sticks.
No wonder, for each toe is a sucking disk that clings fast to any smooth object it touches. This feature, and some others less easily observed, indicate his closer relationship to the spring peeper, who has come out of his underground winter home several weeks earlier and has relieved himself of family cares before our frog of the tree has waked himself from his winter sleep.

Now, like most of our frogs and toads, the tree frog and his mate seek some quiet woodland pool, for their prospective children must pass the early weeks of their life in the water. Here the eggs are laid in small masses and then these soon hatch into tiny tadpoles.
Within a few weeks these have gone through their larval state and have become tree frogs like their parents.

Soon after both old and young,
each individual on his own account, hunts a home deep in some cavity of root or trunk, often high above the ground, where the long winter is passed.

TULLE BOW

For the evening, Paris presents this bow of tulle with two ropes of twisted strands of green bangles.

TAILORED BELTS

An odd note in the winter styles is the use of strictly tailored belts of gold or silver leather on chiffon evening gowns.

Flapper Fanny Says

Short dresses are proper with some but with others it shows bad form.

A teaspoonful of wood alcohol is enough to blind and often kill a person.

"Society? I'll Take Job," Blueblood Author Says

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Temperamental and active women need to have lots of work to do, and if their home and family doesn't use up all their excess energy—and usually it doesn't—they should have jobs of some kind.

So says Isabel Cotton Smith, herself one of the restless class.
Though she belongs to one of the old, aristocratic families of New York, and knows the 400 by their first names, she knows her way around in the business world.
She's in Dun's as well as the Social Register.

"As a child," she recalls, "I was always unhappy because I never had enough to do. I couldn't possibly keep myself occupied, and I frequently got into trouble.
As I grew older, I was unable to take social life seriously, and it was not until I needed the money, and went to work that I really became happy because then I had an outlet for my activities."

Was Fired Twice
Mrs. Smith has made a great adventure of her business career and allowed no conventional notions of what a first family lady cannot do cramp her activity.

"My first venture was that of saleswoman in an exclusive New York shop. At the end of two weeks my employer asked me not to return, and as a final gesture, he said I was impossible—I believe he went so far as to imply I was an idiot. I stayed two months in my next job but it was not a period of unalloyed joy for me or the firm.

Isabel Cotton Smith

during the war, where there was nothing for me to do. I started to write a cook book. Believe it or not, I was nine years writing that volume which has recently come out as "The Blue Book of Cookery."

"All my love for cooking went into it. During that time, I experimented with some 2000 recipes besides what came up in the regular course of the day's eating routine. And I never again want to see eggs and a mixing bowl looking menacingly at me."

When she returned to New York, after the war, Mrs. Smith plunged into new business activities. She became a professional marketer, and the business, she admits, was a flop. Buying vegetables and meats for a hundred women was just a hundred times as bad as buying for one.

From that she operated an employment bureau, then she went into real estate on a large scale and is one of the most successful women in the business.

"I didn't go into business for fun," she admits. "If I hadn't needed a little money to keep the gas from being turned off, I don't suppose I should have made quite the effort I did, at the start.

Winnboro Mills, Winnboro, S. C.

These cotton mills, controlled by the United States Rubber Company, specialize in cord for United States Tires.

Answering some Questions about the Cord in United States Tires

Q—How important is cord in a tire?

A—Cord provides the strength for the tire. It is the framework and the reinforcement which gives to the tire its form and structure. Rubber saturates, insulates and webs the cords together and supplies the tire with its wear-resisting surface.

Q—Who makes the cord for United States Tires?

A—The superior cord used in United States Tires is made in the Winnboro Mills at Winnboro, South Carolina. These mills are controlled by the United States Rubber Company and have been, since 1917.

Q—Why does the United States Rubber Company consider it advantageous to operate its own cord mills?

A—This is in keeping with the Company's policy of ensuring absolute uniformity and high quality in all the materials which go into its tires. For the same reason, the Company grows its own rubber on its great plantations in the Far East.

Q—Then, this cord from the Winnboro Mills is uniform and of high quality?

A—Yes. These one-product mills use machinery especially adapted to making cord for United States Tires. The operators are specialists in their work and the entire energy of the mills is devoted to making the best tire cord that can be made.

Q—How is the quality of the cord assured?

A—Tests are made at each step in manufacture at the mills. Further tests are made of each carload received at the tire factories. A third series of control tests are made periodically at the Central Textile Development Department, the Company's technical organization specializing in the development of cotton goods for the United States Rubber Company.

NEWS FROM ORANGE COUNTY

NEW WELL AT H. B. FLOWING 1650 BARRELS

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Oct. 19.—The Milley Petroleum Exploration company yesterday completed its Pacific Electric No. 3 well in the Huntington Beach field with an initial production of 1650 barrels, giving this company a total output in Huntington Beach of 3500 barrels, according to official reports. The Milley Exploration company expects to have two other wells on production within the next few days, which should run this daily output to 5000 barrels.

Pacific Electric No. 3 was completed at a depth of 3980 feet, with the 11-inch water string set at 3954 feet, giving the well a total penetration of nearly 850 feet, which is one of the reasons for its excellent production. The gravity of the oil is 25.8 degrees, the yield being absolutely clean. Pressure on tubing and casing is high, and the well is expected to maintain a high settled rate of production when it finally settles down to normal output.

Pacific Electric No. 4 is producing 850 barrels a day at present. In addition to these wells, Pacific Electric No. 1 and No. 2 are expected to go on production before the end of the week. All these wells are in the deep Huntington Beach zone. Pacific Electric No. 5 is standing with 10-inch casing cemented at 3360 feet, and No. 6 is drilling ahead at 2741 feet.

The McKean Oil company's No. 1 has settled down to about 1200 barrels a day, at which rate it has been producing for several days, according to field reports. The well came in at the rate of 1600 barrels a day. Pressure on tubing and casing has not decreased, it is said.

The United Oil company yesterday set a water string in its Buck No. 1 well at 3533 feet, according to official reports. This well is located on Eighteenth street between Walnut and Olive streets.

The two ardent young men endeavored to "pick up" two girls who were returning home from a motion picture show, according to police. The girls appealed to the police for protection.

When Nash and Darflier faced Judge C. W. Warner on charges of disturbing the peace, they pleaded guilty and Warner pronounced the sentence of $200 or 200 days in jail for each. They were unable to pay and are in jail.

VOTE YES ON NOS. 1, 2, 5 AND 7

This editorial is the first of a series having to do with the 28 proposals that are to be voted upon by the voters of California on November 2. We will endeavor to briefly analyze each of the propositions, and to offer our advice concerning it. The dividing line between "yes" and "no" on some of the amendments is very close, but with most of them any voter ought to be able to reach an immediate decision.

In our discussion, we will touch upon each of the 28 proposals, though not in the order they appear upon the ballot. There are quite a number of proposals that naturally should be discussed together.

For instance, the two highway proposals, Nos. 4 and 8, are of that kind, as are the two reapportionment measures, Nos. 20 and 28.

Today, we glance at No. 1, which concerns the Veterans' Welfare act of 1925. This measure passed the legislature, and, because bonds are proposed, must be voted upon by the people. The act seeks $20,000,000 bonds to complete the program of financing ex-service men, through loans, in the purchase of homes and farms. The original issue of $10,000,000 was nowhere enough to meet the need. Through this method, the power of the state to borrow money at a low rate is extended to accommodate the veterans. The measure has the support of various organizations of veterans of the Civil, Spanish-American and World wars. The people have authorized one issue, and have started the work. The job should be finished. We recommend voting yes.

No. 2 on the ballot is a measure proposing that motor stages that have become common carriers shall be taxed in the same way as railroads and public utilities. Motor lines have grown up in the past few years. For taxation purposes, they are being put where they naturally belong. We shall vote yes.

Amendment No. 5 proposes to raise salaries of the secretary of state, the state controller, the state treasurer and the state surveyor from $5000 a year to $7000; the salary of the superintendent of public instruction from $5000 to $8000; the salary of the attorney general from $6000 to $8000. Salaries of these state officials at present are admittedly inadequate. Some counties pay more than the state pays, and the same kind of work for private concerns would command more than the amounts proposed in this amendment. We believe California should pay fair salaries. We will vote yes.

In order that short line steam railroads may be properly classified for taxation purposes, No. 7 on the ballot is submitted. The bill passed the legislature practically unanimously. The measure proposes to put steam roads with lines less than 250 miles in length in the same taxation class with electric roads instead of with the big railroads. It's a fair measure, and the passage of No. 7 will be an act of justice. Our suggestion is that No. 7 be supported.

The aspiring sex will never be satisfied now until some woman swims the Atlantic.

NEATNESS AND ORDER

One of the first things taught in Boston university's new course for prospective brides is that they should be "orderly but not neat."

Here is a distinction that deserves a little elucidation. Neatness is a fine quality as long as it isn't overdone. The neatness which the matrimonial students are advised against is the old-fashioned sort, still found in occasional homes, which insists on everything being so spick-and-span that people are afraid to touch or use it. Thus it makes life miserable for men who disarrange anything, or leave a trace of mud on a rug.

Order is having things where they belong. It is a matter of efficiency rather than religion or morals. It is as desirable to have an orderly system in a house in an office or factory. Even husbands and children may be reasonably expected to do their part toward keeping clothes, furniture and tools in the proper place, instead of scattering them all over the house, so that the next fellow who wants them will be able to find them.

Almost any man will agree to that, in principle at least. Men can usually understand and sympathize with order, whether they practice it or not. But the neatness which puts a "tidy" on the back of every chair and regards any displacement of it as a tragedy, that is something which a normal man hates from the bottom of his soul.

A man wants convenience and comfort in his home. Order makes his home life convenient, but neatness may make it uncomfortable.

Men incline to be orderly but not neat. Some women incline to be neat but not orderly.

THE MALARIA CURE

German chemists announce a new and effective cure for malaria. Quinine serves the purpose now pretty well, but the new drug is said to be 10 times as strong as quinine, with the additional merit of being tasteless, so that it is easily taken in any form. The discoverers, after extensive experiments in various countries, say that it quickly destroys the micro-organism which causes the malarial infection, and may be regarded as a sure cure.

That will be an enormous blessing to humanity, if it has no collateral bad effects on the patients. Malarial fever is one of the oldest and most disastrous diseases in the world. It is regarded by some historians as the main cause of the death of the great ancient civilizations, and it is today one of the chief obstacles to human conquest of vast, fertile areas. Any drug that enables man to defy the malaria mosquito should be worth billions to civilization. It is the next thing to getting entirely rid of the mosquitoes themselves, which is an almost hopeless task.

There is still a great deal for medical science to do, however, along this line. Most of the mosquitoes that infest forests and marshy areas are not malaria carriers, but nevertheless discourage human occupation by the pain and irritation of their bites. Who will find a way to make human beings immune to this petty annoyance? There are some persons now who are never bitten, or never poisoned by mosquitoes. Can this immunity be extended to all?

Peace More Important Than War

Riverside Press

The people of San Francisco want to bridge the bay that separates the city of San Francisco from the other cities of Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley. Those together constitute one great metropolitan, industrial and commercial area and are properly one city. Combined they have a population somewhat less than a million people. If the bay could be spanned by one or more bridges, the district would be much better connected and more unified. It would promote business and industry. It is an absolute essential of the conditions under which the people of the bay region exist. Yet the war department says that no bridge shall be built.

It seems quite un-American for a department of the government to say to a city or state, that it shall not make a great and needed local improvement, because that department thinks it would be disadvantageous to its work. In fact, the army is not for itself objecting, but at the request of the navy. The theory is, that at some future time there might be a war and such a bridge be an obstruction to the best naval defense. If true, this would be denying present great benefits for some purely theoretical one.

Now it is being argued, that the war department has no authority to interfere for any such reason. This constitution gave the federal government jurisdiction over navigable streams. That was for the protection of commerce for the common welfare and to prevent any one state interfering with it. Some department of the government had to exercise this power, and it was delegated to the war department, chiefly because it had the only corps of engineers capable of handling it. Keeping open our navigable streams is a work of peace and not of war. In time of war we are apt to block ourselves to keep out an enemy. Now, the very power which was delegated for the purpose of promoting the common welfare is being used to obstruct progress because another department of the government has a theory on the subject. If it shall prove, that the war department has nothing to say on the subject of building a bridge anywhere save as it might affect navigation, it will remove one form of restrictive federal usurpation.

Be Watchful and Wary

Sacramento Bee

Says the observant San Bernardino Sun: "The deaths from automobiles in this state during the first six months of the present year were at the rate of one for each 4,000 people, and one for each 1,000 cars registered at Sacramento."

The figures would be more impressive if made for the full year—one death for each 2,000 people, and one for each 500 registered cars.

Those annual figures would loom up well in life insurance statistics.

Another way of making the figures instructive would be to assume the average life of an automobile is five years.

On that basis it would appear that in the course of its existence, in active service, one automobile in each 100 would have a lively prospect of killing somebody.

On the other hand, it may be inferred that every year 1,999 persons of each 2,000 in California have at least as good a prospect of escaping a fatal hurt from a motor vehicle as of being permanently knocked out in that way.

It must be admitted, however, that the chances of escaping temporary or permanent injury from an automobile are by no means so good.

So it is well for everybody—whether on foot or on wheels—to be watchful and wary.

Honors to a Tree

Oakland Tribune

Seventy years ago an orange tree was planted at Bidwell Bar.

Today it is the oldest orange tree in California and the largest orange tree in the state. So much do men love the tree and its story that a monument will be built at Bidwell Bar and a celebration held. The world will discover that men have learned to honor trees and will hear the story of the Mother Orange Tree near Oroville.

When this tree was set out California was excited because the second major gold strike had been made. Eight years before, Marshall discovered gold and all the state was busy making money and history. Early miners paid as high as a dollar each for the oranges of the Mother Tree, took the seeds away with them and planted them here and there so that all over the mining country there are trees which are direct descendants of the one at Oroville.

It is related that the Mother Tree never had a crop failure, and that it is today healthy and vigorous. It is a wonderful tree and worthy of all of those honors which will be bestowed.

DISEASE BLAMED FOR CRASH OF NATIONS
 Histories of the world seem strangely silent as to the causes for the decline of the great civilization of the past.

Moral textbooks emphasize the fact the peoples suddenly became addicted to all sorts of unusual vices. Only recently have historians begun to fix their gaze upon new evidence which seems to place the responsibility largely on uncontrollable, infectious diseases.

Alexander the Great died in 323 B. C. after 10 days of fever. With his death the grandeur of Greece departed, but it was not that factor alone that was responsible.

There was a severe increase of malaria among the Greeks, with a loss of military efficiency, of industrial ability and of artistic and literary attainment.

Malaria, as pointed out by Francis A. Richardson, has claimed more victims than all of the wars in history.

Sir Ronald Ross, who proved that the disease is transmitted by the mosquito, claimed that malaria destroyed two million persons annually. Before the introduction of quinine as a specific remedy for the disease its mortality was even greater.

Alaric, leader of the Goths, who overthrew the civilization of Rome in 410 A. D., died probably of malaria. Modern scientists believe that his death and the destruction of his troops were largely due to the fact that they destroyed the aqueduct that supplied water to Rome and that the resultant stagnant water bred mosquitoes which spread malaria among the people.

In all of the great wars, previous to the last, more men died from disease than were killed by explosives. Time and again a war has been lost because some nation did not understand how to protect its troops scientifically.

The geography of the world would be even more altered today were it not for what medicine has accomplished in the control of disease.

Ah—A Recruit

Enthroning the Dahlia

San Bernardino Sun

The city of San Francisco is about to adopt the dahlia as the official flower of the metropolis at the Golden Gate, by action of the board of supervisors. This action is based upon consultation with the officers of the Dahlia Society of California, and is in recognition of the fact that this magnificent flower has come to the very front of all floral production in the state. While the eschscholtzia is a beautiful and a native flower, and thus better fills the requirements for a state floral emblem, it is a fact that the dahlia is becoming more distinctive of this state than any other garden bloom.

Some years ago we borrowed the chrysanthemum from Japan and China and developed it into a perfect maze of sizes and colors. Our chrysanthemum shows have been marvels of beauty and variety, the blooms being cultivated in the open. However, there are also being given great chrysanthemum shows in eastern cities, the exhibits being, of course, produced under glass. Of late years, however, California has been turning from the chrysanthemum to the dahlia. Everywhere one goes in the state he sees wonderful gardens of dahlias. For variety, size, shades and mingling of colors it is doubtful if the whole world can match the dahlias produced in the gardens of California. San Francisco has chosen well her official flower, though she is not able to produce it in any excellence above many other portions of the state.

It is always a difficult thing to single out a flower and say that it is distinctive of California, for nearly every bloom the world knows is to be found in this state and often in a perfection seldom seen elsewhere. There is no day from year's end to year's end when California is not embedded in colorful bloom. All one has to do is to give nature a start and little assistance along the way to be rewarded with a riot of color every day in the year.

Worth While Verse

Yet here, Laertes! Aboard, aboard, for shame!
 The wind sits in the shoulder of your sail,
 And you are stay'd for. There, my blessing with thee!

And these few precepts in thy memory
 Look thou character. Give thy thoughts no tongue, Nor any unproportion'd thought his act.

Be thou familiar, but by no means vulgar;
 The friends thou hast, and their adoption tried,
 Grapple them to thy soul with hoops of steel;

But do not dull thy palm with entertainment
 Of each new hatch'd, unfledg'd comrade. Beware
 Of entrance to a quarrel, but, being in,

Beat 't that 't opposed may beware of thee.
 Give every man thine ear, but few thy voice;
 Take each man's censure, but reserve thy judgment.

Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy,
 But not expressed in fancy; rich, not gaudy;
 For the apparel oft proclaims the man,

And they in France of the best rank and station
 Are most select and generous, chief in that.
 Neither a borrower, nor a lender be;

For loan oft loses both itself and friend,
 And borrowing dulls the edge of husbandry.
 This above all: to thine own self be true,

And it must follow, as the night the day,
 Thou canst not then be false to any man.
 Farewell; my blessing season this in thee!

Measures on the Ballot

Under this heading, the Register presents information and arguments concerning various measures that are to be voted upon in the November elections. Views expressed here may or may not be the views of the Register.

FOR THE FEDERAL PLAN

Following in the footsteps of other chambers throughout the state, the Alameda Chamber of Commerce this week endorsed the Federal plan reapportionment measure, proposition 28 on the ballot, and launched an active fight in support of the measure.

The action was taken at a special meeting of the board of directors and was unanimous. Homer B. Spence, campaign director for Federal plan reapportionment, spoke on the subject, explaining the Federal plan method, and presenting reasons why California voters should adopt the amendment.

"No other way has been found in this nation," said Spence, "for giving either a state or the nation a balanced legislative body. The Federal plan proposed now for California is taken from the constitution of the United States. It is in force in 29 other states, where the problem of big city population existed, and in each of these states this problem has been solved with satisfaction to all."

"The Federal plan will give to each of the more populous counties one senator, and as many assemblymen as its population entitles it to. But no large section of the state will be entirely without any representative in the legislature, for the measure gives at least one senator to every three counties, regardless of their population."

"What would happen under this measure is something like this: Twenty-seven of the more populous counties would have one senator each; 16 counties grouped in twos would have eight senators, and 15 counties grouped in threes, would have five senators."

"Thus the senate would remain a body representative of the entire state, while the assembly, restricted entirely on a population basis, would be controlled by three of the large cities. The result would be a balanced legislature and a guarantee of fair representation to all sections of the state for all time."

The San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, the Berkeley chamber and practically every other chamber in the state has endorsed this plan for settling the reapportionment problem in California.

Argues Against No. 3

Characterizing proposition No. 3, the so-called oleomargarine referendum, as a tax on food, J. J. Mack, secretary of the California Anti Food-Tax association, issued a statement in which he urged voters to defeat the measure at the November election.

The principal arguments against the law as presented by Mack follow:

1—A tax of two cents a pound is levied on all margarine sold in California; this is the first time this state has imposed a TAX FOOD.

2—Margarine is recognized as a pure food; both by the United States government and the state of California; there are already ample laws, both federal and state, for the regulation of the manufacture and sale of this product; there is positively no need for this law as a pure food regulation.

3—This tax on about 15 million pounds of margarine annually sold here would each year yield about $300,000; the state already receives about $50,000 from oleomargarine dealers in license fees; the expenses of running the state dairy department is only about $40,000 a year. The tax is, therefore, unnecessary and wasteful.

4—The law does not apply to California-manufactured margarine sold in other states. People in other western states would be able to buy California products cheaper than we could here—a clear discrimination against citizens of California.

5—The law is not necessary for the protection of the dairy industry of this state. California milk and butter already bring a higher

Piano Elves

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS.

WHEN a small person starts music lessons there are many discouraging days when his fingers just will not go right, but blunder along instead, and he feels there's nothing quite so irksome as practicing. Those are the days when grown-ups must make practicing as interesting as possible and help the child look ahead to accomplishment. Easy pieces with melodies for words are interesting, and simple duets seem big and encouraging. The value of hearing good music can not be over-estimated. Not all children will develop into artists, but it's mighty nice to be able to play some instrument to an interesting degree—not to mention the excellent mental discipline of a task met and accomplished every day, such as comes with definite practicing periods.

OUR piano's full of fairies.

Or perhaps they're little elves,
 Who, when I pull the stopper out,
 Make music all themselves.

They go dancing o'er the white keys,
 Or run tripping o'er the back,
 And then they slide clear down the scale
 And bump their way right back.

The big bass notes make booming sounds,
 The high ones sing a song,
 And all the little tinkling ones
 Keep running right along.

When I play our piano
 I can't make it sound that
